Ike Still Hopeful of Agreement on Suez

President Lauds
British Courage

Washington, April 10 (AP) — President Eisenhower said today the United States still hopes to get a satisfactory Suez Canal agreement in direct talks with Egypt, but he does not know how long such negotiations will continue.

Eisenhower told his news conference he is not yet ready to move beyond the stage of negotiations with Egypt.

Called Rejection
This amounted, in effect, to a rejection for the moment of recommendations by the British and French that the Suez issue be tossed back into the United Nations Security Council.

President Eisenhower said today he admires Great Britain's courage and nerve in deciding to put its military program on a new look, streamlined basis.

Eisenhower was asked at his news conference to comment on such British decisions as the conclusion that the home islands cannot be adequately defended against atomic attack.

Asked of Impact
Asked about the impact of those decisions on other North Atlantic Treaty countries, Eisenhower replied there is no question that Britain's new program has disturbed some NATO nations.

But he went on to say that Britain has had a hard time in recent years—has had an heroic row to hoe in trying to keep its economic nose above water.

The President emphasized that he was speaking only of the Suez situation as it exists today and he did not at all foreclose the possibility that an early turn of events could change his basic views about it.

No Progress Seen
Both the British and French governments are reported to have advised the United States strongly that no progress is being made in negotiations which U. S. Ambassador Raymond A. Hare has been conducting in Cairo with Egyptian President Nasser and Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzi.

The United States has been seeking to win concessions from Egypt in a canal operations plan, its purpose being to assure greater protection for nations and shipping companies using the waterway.

Asked about the status of those negotiations and about the possibility of switching over to the United Nations, Eisenhower replied the talks are still going on in Cairo and he had no means of knowing how long they will continue.

Every time the United States goes into one of these negotiations, he said, its purpose is to get a satisfactory agreement and that is its purpose in the Cairo negotiations.

In the course of the news conference, Eisenhower also talked on:

Form State Mental Health
Body at Albany Conference

Dr. Edward F. Shea, a member of the Ulster County Community Health Board, attended a two-day organizational meeting of the New York State Association of Community Mental Health Boards in Albany this week.

The state association was organized Monday at the second annual conference of community health boards conducted by the Department of Mental Hygiene at the DeWitt Clinton Hotel. Approximately 150 board members and administrators from the 23 boards in the state attended the meeting.

Dr. Shea said the sessions stressed experiences in counties where mental health services already prevail to

DEXTER, HUBEN HONORED—Harris E. Dexter (second from left), retired vice president of Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corp., is congratulated for his 16-year effort in promoting the Ulster-Greene county area as a vacationland by Clyde Gardner (center), Saugerties attorney. Honored with Mr. Dexter at a dinner last night was Edward M. Huben (extreme right), who directed the promotion. J. E. Doolittle (second from right), new vice president of Central Hudson, and Joseph Horan (extreme left), director of the New York State Travel Bureau, spoke at the dinner. (Freeman photo)

Two men credited with leading the successful promotion of Ulster and Greene counties as a vacationland were honored by more than 50 editors, businessmen and civic leaders last night at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

The honorees were Harris E. Dexter, former vice president of Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation, and Edward M. Huben, regional promotion director for the firm.

Firm Says Line
Unlawful in Aim
To Start Union

Supreme Court Justice Isadore Bookstein yesterday signed an order in Albany restraining all picketing and other activities at Channel Master Corp., Ellenville, by Locals 445 and 810 of the Teamsters Union, pending decision of a motion for a temporary injunction.

Announcement of Justice Bookstein's order was made today by Louis Berger, of Ellenville, general counsel for the television-antenna manufacturing concern.

Signed After Hearing
The order, signed after a hearing was held at the justice's chambers in the Albany Court House, requires the union to show cause at Albany on April 15 why a temporary injunction should not be granted.

Organizational picket lines were established at the Ellenville firm last Tuesday. The union emphasized that the picket line was not a strike line.

The action brought by Channel Master against both local unions charges that the picketing and other union activities schools, courts, voluntary agencies and welfare departments. Officers elected for the newly formed association are Mrs. Rhea M. Eckel, member of the Onondaga county board, president; Dr. Philip Raffe, chairman of the Suffolk county board, and commissioner of welfare, vice president; Mrs. Alice Fordyce, a member of the New York city board, secretary, and Mrs. Margaret Daly, secretary of the Jefferson county board, treasurer.

The community mental health boards have been appointed by local governments under the New York State Community Mental Health Law of 1954. Their purpose is to develop psychiatric services in the community. Under the program the torney, was master of ceremonies for the affair which was the 15th annual meeting of the Ulster-Greene Vacationland organization.

Mr. Gardner said the efforts of Mr. Dexter and Mr. Huben have resulted in bringing 500,000 visitors and $30,000,000 to the two counties annually.

Have 2,000 Resorts
He said the counties, with their 2,000 resorts and lodges, have "more accommodations than Switzerland."

Ira V. D. Warren, editor of the Kingston Ulster Press, retraced the promotion campaign from 15 years ago when "the famed land of Rip Van Winkle was being deserted" by pleasure seekers.

"Then came Mr. Dexter and Mr. Huben with their dream," Mr. Warren said. "They used two-edged advertising, one edge aimed at the traveling public, the other at the area people, who, like Rip Van Winkle, were still asleep."

"They've been a magnificent job," he added. He compared them to Johnny Appleseed for their having "translated" prosperity as Appleseed translated trees.

Cooperation Praised
J. E. Doolittle, who replaced Mr. Dexter with Central Hudson after the latter's retirement, praised the "spirit of cooperation" between the two counties.

He announced that the Central Hudson board of directors had decided that Mr. Huben, who is due for retirement in September, could continue another year as regional promotion director if he desired. The announcement drew a round of applause from those present.

Asked after the dinner whether or not he would accept the offer, Mr. Huben said, "I don't know."

Joseph Horan, director of the New York State Travel Bureau, told the group that "it is the local communities that have to be the basis" for promotional development.

In Kingston's case, he said it was a matter of "selling history" and "letting people know" what there is here to enjoy. He referred to the famed Senate House as one of the many historical attractions here.

Credits Vision
Mr. Horan said his work with Mr. Huben and Mr. Dexter in attracting travelers to the Ulster-Greene area had been "an experience in learning." He said the men were due much credit for their "vision."

Mr. Gardner introduced Mr. Huben, who commended the vacationland group for its efforts in helping the "business, prosperity and future of the Catskills."

He recalled how the area was made attractive to outsiders through giving points of interest attractive names. He listed the naming of Route 28 as "The Ontario Trail," Ontario is an Indian term meaning "land of the skies," the Indians' expression for the mountains now called the Catskills. The high-

Thruway Is Worry Now,
Boon Later

'Growing Pains'
Seen Essential

By JORDAN BONFANTE

The New York State Thruway has given Kingston its share of troubles, but in the visible future it should prove a 'big boon' to the city.

Such is the view taken by the Chamber of Commerce of the State's "Main Street," which has stuffed Kingston thoroughfares with traffic congestion and indirectly hurt the city's potential retail business. However, these are growing pains necessary for a "very bright future" of expansion because of the Thruway, according to Albert Kurdt, manager of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce.

A Maze of Traffic
Major improvements will convert the burdens brought by the Thruway to Kingston into benefits, he said.

Its advent to Kingston immediately made a maze of the city's traffic network, Mr. Kurdt said. It reversed the pattern of traffic, "causing our back-door to become our front-door."

Through-traffic that once flowed down Broadway to Route 9W was crammed instead into Washington avenue and North Front street. A rush-hour rate of eight or nine hundred cars per hour.

Casting his eye outside the Chamber office at the crawling queue of cars in front of the Governor Clinton Hotel, he estimated a three or fourfold increase in traffic.

Brought One-Way System
This dilemma brought the need for a system of one-way traffic and timed stoplights, he said. But the new system had not proved completely satisfactory, because the streets were just too old and too narrow.

From the recognition that some fundamental change was necessary sprung the present plan for an arterial route within the near future. To ease the downtown traffic jam a divided highway would be built from the upper end of Broadway direct to the Thruway gate.

Final Plans Drawn
Final plans for the project have been drawn, Mr. Kurdt declared, and contract bids for its construction should be advertised within a couple of months.

Transportation and parking difficulties due to the Thruway have prevented Kingston merchants from cashing in on all the potential business that the big

Ulster to Discuss School
Plan for Whittier Pupils

School facilities for children living in the Whittier Development, Flatbush road, will be discussed at a meeting of the Town of Ulster Planning Board on Monday, April 22.

The Saugerties board of education appointed a committee at its Monday night session to meet with the town of Ulster board "to discuss the expansion of the Whittier Development and the problem of school facilities incurred thereby."

The committee includes Kenneth G. Beadle, John Lowther, Agnes K. Schroeder, Milton Armstrong and William Ziegler. Attorney Louis A. DiDonna, counsel for the town of Ulster, told the Freeman today the housing development is divided by two school districts—the Saugerties Central School district and Town of Ulster School District No. 6 (Emma Wygant School).

Mr. DiDonna said Kingsvale Builders, Inc., contractors for the development, "have made provisions in their plot map for 10 and 12 acre sites to be used for school building purposes."

Dr. Grant D. Morse, superintendent of Saugerties schools, said pupils now residing in the Whittier Development attend classes at Emma Wygant and the North Flatbush School.

The board authorized purchase of 140 chairs at a cost of $2,981 from the Heywood-Wakefield Co., Delmar. The chairs are for use in four seventh grade

Registration Ends Saturday

Legal aspects of the May 7 referendum on a bond issue of the proposed Junior High School at Dietz stadium were discussed Tuesday evening by Judge Louis G. Bruhn, board of education member.

Included in his discussion at a PTA sponsored meeting at George Washington School was the question who may vote and the qualifications of voters.

Register at Auditorium
It was pointed out that registration will end Saturday, April 13, at 5 p. m. and any person eligible to vote at the referendum and who was not registered at the last November general election must register at municipal auditorium on Broadway before that time.

Any person registered at the November general election is automatically registered and may vote at the referendum on May 7.

Judge Bruhn pointed out that there has been a question in the minds of many as to whether it is necessary that a voter pay school tax. This is not the case. The qualifications for a voter are:

Citizenship Requirements
Residence in New York state for one year prior to May 7, 1957. Residence in Ulster county for four months. Residence in the city of Kingston for 30 days prior to the date of voting. Any naturalized citizen may vote provided he or she has been naturalized at least 90 days prior to the election.

The question of why we are voting on this particular bond issue arose. This is the first time the voters of Kingston have voted on a bond issue and many are puzzled, Judge Bruhn said.

Referendum Necessary
No vote was taken at the time of the construction of the George Washington school, the last time a long term bond issue was in-

The original constitution of New York state, signed in Kingston in 1777, will be returned here under heavy guard for the 180th anniversary of its adoption April 20.

The historical document will be on display in the New York State Armory on Manor avenue for an anniversary ceremony at 1:30 p. m.

Governor Averell Harriman and Chief Judge Albert Conway of the Court of Appeals will speak at the observance, which is open to the public.

Other State Speakers
Other speakers include Mayor Donald Mead of Syracuse, who is secretary of the State Commission for the Constitutional Convention, and Henry Steele Commager, Columbia University history professor. Roger W. Straus, chancellor of the Board of Regents, will preside at the program, which is open to the public.

Governor Harriman said the celebration would have particular significance this year because voters of the state would ballot next fall on whether to hold a new constitutional convention.

Plans for the anniversary observance were mapped out in the Senate House Museum this week by a local advisory group and a representative of the Governor's Office.

Yorkers to Sponsor Event
The Yorkers, junior branch of the State Historical Association, will sponsor the ceremony. Over a thousand of these young historians will travel to Kingston from high schools throughout the length of the Hudson valley, the Catskill area, the capital district and Long Island.

National Guard bands from New York city and Schenectady will participate with local Guard units from the 156th Field Artillery.

"We are interested in focusing attention on the importance of Kingston in the history of the state," Albert Kurdt, manager of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce, said. "It is the birthplace of the government of the state of New York."

Mr. Kurdt is serving on the local advisory committee with Mrs. Vincent G. Connelly, Miss Emily Rice, Mayor Frederick H. Stang and Mrs. Mary B. Terwilliger, all of Kingston. Mrs. Albert S. Kerr of New Paltz is also a member.

Brake and Safety
Clinic Draws 200

Guarantee Auto Parts of Kingston entertained more than 200 garagemen, car dealers, service station operators and mechanics at a brake and safety clinic at Nadler's Garage Monday night.

The clinic, sponsored by American Brakeblok and conducted by John A. Rollins, district manager, presented films on brake maintenance and precedure and featured the nationally televised safety film quotation, "Will You Come Back?"

Julius Sobsey, proprietor of Guarantee Auto Parts, introduced Elmer T. Lane, state director of automobile inspection. Mr. Lane discussed the role mechanics must perform in preparing automobiles to meet safety requirements under the current inspection program.

Mr. Lane was assisted by Al Costellano, assistant inspector. Guests were Ralph Young, sales manager, Ray Alden, field executive of the National Automotive Parts Association, and Joseph Ryan of the Puritan Brake Fluid Co. Refreshments were served following the meeting.

Kingston voters are being asked to support the bond issue to build a new Junior High School, by the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce.

The resolution favoring the proposed bond issue called attention to the need for additional school facilities, to the importance of the best possible and adequate educational facilities for our young people and to the fact that this bond issue in no way involves or conflicts with any future consideration of the proposed area consolidation.

Red Claim 23 Records

Moscow (P)—Soviet air pilots, parachute jumpers and model builders have just claimed 23 new world records in a wide category of events. These include altitude records for both parachute jumps and small planes. One record was for a flight to an altitude of 6,018 meters carry a two ton load by a Soviet MI-4 type helicopter flown by Rafael Keprelyan.

School Consolidation Explained

Other Reorganization Plans Are Held Not Too Desirable

(Note—This is the 17th in a series of articles on the proposed Greater Kingston Area Consolidation written by Norman Hammond of Lake Katrine and edited by four others on a committee interested in presenting an explanation about linking rural districts to the city school system.)

Many people have decided, arbitrarily it seems, that they are against the proposed consolidation. Some of these people wish to reorganize in some other way; some wish to stay as we are; and some don't know what to wish.

There is no clear-cut, obviously good, alternative to consolidation. As was mentioned in one of the early articles, neither the city alone nor the rural districts alone would have sufficient high school students to maintain the present program.

Other Possibilities

Several possibilities have been discussed, however. Firstly we could do nothing and remain as we are—our rural elementary children going to a combination of rural and city schools, our rural secondary children going to Kingston on a contract basis. It is believed that those of you who have read the previous articles can already see why this is impossible. Just this last week the Kingston Board of Education was forced, by the crowded condition of some of the Kingston schools, to refuse to admit certain rural elementary students for next year. This is the beginning of a trend which can go only upward. Eventually many, if not most, of the rural elementary and secondary school students would be forced out of the city schools. As has been said before, the rejection of children applying for admission to the schools is a chore that no one relishes—certainly not the Kingston Board; but facts are facts; the schools can hold only so many pupils.

High Costs Seen

Secondly, the rural districts could band together and form a Centralization outside the city. Several arguments against this exist. The state has declared that it will not approve such a centralization as long as there is any possibility of an enlarged city district being formed. This possibility will continue to exist whether or not we vote for consolidation this time. With at least one of the Hurley districts now firmly committed to joining the Onteora Centralization and the probability that several more will join also, the size of the area outside the city is being decreased along with the tax-base. When this is subtracted from the proposed enlarged city district, the difference is minor in nature; but when it is subtracted from the rural areas alone it is quite significant. The smaller the rural area involved, the less advantageous becomes any proposed centralization. In a new centralization it would be necessary to build secondary schools from the ground up. Since the planned additions to the elementary schools would still be required, the total expenditure would be prohibitive. A third, and almost ridiculous, proposal could be for all of the rural districts to join the existing centralizations. For those districts on the outskirts this alternative already exists, as West Hurley has proven. But for those districts close to Kingston, to join a distant centralization would seem rather foolish. Travel times and distances would be increased, high schools would be small with limited curricula, taxes would not be decreased. None of these alternatives seems very desirable. We must consolidate with the city—and soon.

Killed on Turnpike

Harrisburg, Pa., April 10 (P)—State police said a car traveling at 90-100 miles an hour went out of control on the Pennsylvania Turnpike last night. The driver, identified as Charles E. Bogardus, 47, of (143 Store street) New Rochelle, N. Y., was killed. Bogardus, believed to have been a clothing salesman, was alone in the car, traveling on the west-bound lane. The crash occurred about seven miles west of the Harrisburg-east interchange.

Student Pushes TV Winnings to Record $160,000

New York, April 10 (P)—Schoolboy quiz whiz Robert Strom parlayed his TV winnings to $160,000 last night and became the new champion money winner for a single program. The 10-year-old Bronx science expert deposed Theodore Nadler of St. Louis as top money winner for one show. Nadler had boosted his winnings to $152,000 on another program last Sunday.

Strom will return to CBS-TV's "The $64,000 Question" next week to try for $192,000. If he doesn't stumble, he eventually can win $256,000.

Another boy, 11-year-old Leonard Ross of California, still holds the title for the most money won. But his winnings of $164,000 came on two different quiz shows.

Report on Steel

New York, April 10 (P)—The decline in new order volume at steel mills appears to have leveled "for the time being at least," The Iron Age said today. While the trade publication said there will be production declines in April and early May, it added:

"Over-all order volume now suggests that the mills may be in a position to stabilize ingot production by late May or early June." Construction will be the mainstay of the steel market this summer.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, APRIL 10, 1957

A COMMON HERITAGE

Kingston with its resplendent history has had many out-of-town visitors wandering down its side streets, curiously peering at its Colonial architecture for a glimpse into a past that is exciting and exhilarating.

As ten Columbia University graduate students editing your newspaper, we are enjoying the graciousness and hospitality of your town, which rests so peacefully on a fertile plain above the west bank of the Hudson. We marvel at the aura of your heritage, extending back three hundred and five years to encompass an era in the life of America.

To know your story is to discover a history of hardy pioneering, outstanding political and economic events, and an artistic and cultural milieu that has highlighted the development of the Empire State.

Kingstonians are no doubt proud of the rich thread of the past that weaves its way through the fabric of their daily lives. We would like to express our wonderment and gratitude for a bird's-eye view of New York's first capital, where the first legislature met, the first Chief Justice mounted the bench and the first Governor took the oath of office. We express too our gratitude for the fine cooperation of the Freeman management and staff—and for the friendly assistance of officials and citizens.

Kingston will probably never forget its first ferry or Colonial "raisings" when friends and neighbors joined to build a house. And that same picturesque and friendly spirit pervades "Esopus" today. We, too, will not forget.

GROWING PAINS AT 305

At the ripe age of 305, Kingston is still suffering from "growing pains." Long out of adolescence, she is feeling new expansion strains.

Three facts that account for Kingston's growing pains are modern bridge and super-highway approaches to the city, industrial expansion, and increasing suburban dwellers.

Great new strains have been created within the city. With thousands of new residents in the outlying regions and multi-laned roads to carry them into the city faster, Kingston is more than ever the commercial and shopping capital of this area.

In the words of Mayor Frederick H. Stang, "Kingston is at the crossroads of New York State." The opening of the New York State Thruway spur in October, 1954 and the completion of the Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge last February helped to put her there.

Location of the IBM plant in nearby Ulster two years ago opened 6,000 jobs. A new cement plant that may be under construction before the end of the year should add more jobs and bring more families into the area.

In this situation, the pressure is on Kingston. The city will be expected during the next few years to provide more and more service. Her role as commercial center for this part of the mid-Hudson Valley will be broadened.

Her streets, some of them already choked with cars coming off the new approaches, will carry heavier traffic. A study in 1953 showed that the daily volume of traffic here would jump 40 per cent by 1970.

But traffic is not the only problem facing Kingston. The new roads and the new industries mean more people, and more people mean more services. The city will have to watch zoning laws and take care that residential land values are not destroyed by burgeoning commercial areas. She will have to guide the expansion of commercial and shopping areas.

The Planning Board is keenly aware of the problem it faces. Last year it advised the Mayor to hire a professional planning consultant to map a long-term development plan. The program would consider not only Kingston needs, but also those of the surrounding urban area.

The Mayor endorsed the plan and sent it to the Common Council. A two-thirds

THE BUDGET BUREAU WRITES A LETTER

A citizen wrote a letter to the Director of the Bureau of the Budget and received what looks like a mimeographed reply which he sent me. The first sentence reads:

"We appreciate your concern about the Federal budget and the fact that your interest has been sufficient to prompt your recent communication."

Who should take a greater interest in the budget than the citizen who has to pay taxes? Naturally every citizen has a justifiable gripe about the budget and no matter whether the President holds four or five conflicting opinions on the subject, the citizen knows that he has to pay taxes beyond his ability to pay. Furthermore, he knows that the money he is shipping their assets outside the country to avoid taxes and that the more money of that kind that is siphoned off to Canada or Caracas, the more the honest fellows have to pay. So naturally the subject is interesting and prompts a communication to the Director of the Budget. However, the Director does not answer in the mimeographed reply; he leaves that to somebody by the name of Sweeney, first name not given, identity as to male or female disputable.

In this letter appears the following:

"You may be assured that the Bureau of the Budget is working constantly to improve efficiency and to keep Federal expenditures down to the minimum necessary to provide for the defense of the country and the services demanded by our people."

What does that mean? Has the Bureau of the Budget taken over the administration of the country. This is supposed to be a bookkeeping outfit that keeps records of needs, desires and appropriations, but the needs are to be decided by the Cabinet and the National Security Council, the desires come from every bureau and individual in government and the appropriations are the constitutional function of Congress. How does the Bureau of the Budget get into administration?

There is much in this mimeographed letter that is interesting to the tax-paying citizen. For instance:

"Our 1950 air defenses cost $3.6 billion—the 1958 version will require $17.5 billion. One B-36, our major 1950 bomber, cost about $3,700,000; the present-day B-52, $8,000,000. The B-36 had a speed in the range of 435 miles per hour, and a ceiling of over 45,000 feet. But the B-52 can go more than 650 miles per hour, has flown around the world nonstop, and has a ceiling of over 50,000 feet. And it can carry the hydrogen bomb. The B-36's are now obsolete, and have no alternative use to which they can be put."

Now there is the rub. We not only are suffering from an inflation to which no politician dares to call a halt, but we are in a race with Russia for the manufacture of war supplies which become obsolete so quickly that even while they are in the process of being put through the factories, it is deemed better to be employed.

This must be just as true of the Russians as it is of us; but where will it end? We are not only draining off the wealth of the country but we are using up our natural resources to keep pace with Russia and the fear seems to be that the Russians will beat us in this armament race because slave labor is cheaper than free labor and the greatest cost of production is the cost of labor.

Where will it end? There is no telling which side will be bled white first. Perhaps the victory in this battle will go to those countries which do not manufacture munitions or airplanes or submarines or anything else. In a word, the victory could go to primitive tribes, to nomads, to countries which produce nothing but population.

Surely this mimeographed letter does not answer anything except to say that we continue to live in a war economy which we no longer can afford. And also the point is made that everybody seems to want something from the government and expects to get it for nothing, not figuring that the greater the subsidies, the higher the taxes.

So, we shall have this enormous budget and hope that we must get a tax cut in 1959 which would engender a favorable atmosphere for the 1960 election. We shall not get it before then. Brother, can you spare a dime!

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

YOUR NEW DENTURE

In spite of all the advice given over television, radio, in press and magazine advertisements for people after the teeth, the individual past middle age who can boast of having all his teeth is exceptional. It is hoped that with further knowledge of diet, including minerals and vitamins, and with such agents as fluorine, this situation may be reversed.

It is quite likely that the problem of tooth decay will be solved eventually but so far dentists and physicians alike must admit that little progress has been made toward a solution. The best one can do now is eat an adequate diet, including plenty of protein, and follow the advice to brush one's teeth after meals and see one's dentist twice a year. By visiting the dentist at regular intervals, he may be able to catch small cavities or other conditions which would give you much greater trouble if you put off his visit until you have a toothache—as so many of us do.

If one loses many teeth, there is a reason just as important as pride in one's appearance for replacing them with artificial ones. People whose grinding surface is inadequate for thorough chewing tend to eat only soft foods or liquids. This leaves out the important proteins and many green vegetables and the diet comes to be composed more and more of carbohydrates (sweets and starch) with resultant vitamin and food element deficiency.

One of my relatives recently had occasion to have both upper and lower dentures installed and her dentist handed her a copy of the following suggestions which I believe can be helpful to anyone in such straits:

1. Cut food up into small pieces. Try to get some food on both sides of the mouth. Chew slowly, straight up and down.
2. Do not attempt to bite food off at first and do not attempt to chew from side to side.
3. Do not attempt to keep up with other people at the table. If necessary, eat your meals alone. Or you could eat a little at each meal and then eat a couple of times a day between meals.
4. You will find that some foods are easier to manage than others. Practice with these and avoid those foods that are more difficult to eat until you have become more adept.
5. If you have trouble with your speech, read aloud for a few minutes a day.
6. Be patient!

Eating Your Way to Health

Be sure you are getting an all-round diet. Send for Dr. Barton's booklet, "Eating Your Way to Health," enclosing 25 cents, to cover cost of handling and mailing, to The Bell Syndicate, in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, Post Office Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

vote—or a 9-to-4 margin—is required, since a $24,750 bond issue is involved. The Council has mustered seven votes for the plan, and there were indications at last week's meeting that the extra votes would be raised by the May 7 session.

If approval is not forthcoming, it is hoped that the Common Council can furnish a substitute plan. For one thing seems clear: Kingston needs a carefully mapped-out development program. It can transform today's growing pains into tomorrow's strength and maturity.

DEMOCRATIC VICTORY

Washington News

By PETER EDSON

NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington (NEA)—The annual battle over foreign aid begins soon when Eisenhower's program for the next fiscal year goes to Congress. Because of the great economy drive this year, the battle may be more bitter than usual.

The President's budget message in January indicated a request for 4.6 billion dollars. Later, the President cut this to 4.4 billions—2.9 for military assistance and 1.5 for economic aid. These figures might be cut even lower before going to Congress. On the other hand, new Middle East programs might increase them.

Last year President Eisenhower asked for a 4.8-billion-dollar foreign aid program. Congress appropriated 3.7 billion—two billions for military assistance, 1.7 billion for economic aid. The program will be a worse whipping boy than usual this year. Congress will consider it after having failed to make decisive cuts on appropriation bills considered earlier.

VOTERS BACK HOME, more interested in federal aid for local schools, highways or farm relief give support to this resentment against spending so many U. S. tax dollars overseas.

Demands now vary from Sen. Bill Knowland's (R-Calif.) hope for a billion-dollar cut to Sen. Dick Russell's (D-Ga.) wish that all foreign aid be abolished. When all the holler is over, however, the odds are just what they always have been that a sizeable foreign aid program will be approved by Congress. That's the way it always has been.

Nobody like the idea of giving away a lot of money to foreign countries. But when all the cards are down it is usually seen there is no escape from the realities of Communist aggression and U. S. and allied free world national defense needs.

As President Eisenhower says, "It is one of the cheapest ways we have to insure our position in the world."

Opposition to foreign aid is usually more sound than substance. Anyone who wants to compile an imposing list of mistakes that have been made in administering foreign aid programs, if its larger accomplishments are ignored.

REP. GEORGE MEADER (R-Mich.) has such a piece in a current magazine. Sen. Allen J. Ellender (D-La.) widely traveled one-man investigator, returns from every summer's trip abroad with many criticisms of foreign aid administration.

Rep. Porter Hardy Jr. (D-Va.) heads a subcommittee which has made a blistering attack on the International Cooperation Administration work in Iran. This is the country where two U. S. aid technicians and the wife of one of them were ambushed and murdered by bandits. They were en route to inspect a project.

A Senate special committee under Sen. Theodore Francis Green (D-R.I.) is now issuing a series of 20 special investigative reports on the foreign aid programs.

Eleven surveys were made for the committee by private research organizations. Nine were made by prominent private citizens assigned to study foreign aid in specific areas.

THERE IS MUCH critical comment throughout the reports. Mistakes have unquestionably been made by the million dollars' worth. But the main tenor is that foreign aid programs are helpful to the United States and that their continuance is necessary.

Practically every survey made by responsible individuals not connected with government comes up with the same conclusion.

Thus, the President's Citizen Advisory Committee on Mutual Security made a unanimous report that the program "will be essential for some years to come" and that "the overall expenditures have been justified."

The American taxpayers have received a fair return for their money."

This came from a committee that included such hard-headed men as Benjamin F. Fairless of U. S. Steel, ex-Gov. Colgate W. Darden Jr. of Virginia, John L. Lewis of United Mine Workers, and Richard R. Deupree of Procter & Gamble.

Public opinion surveys this year report 64 per cent of the people polled think the United States benefits from foreign aid expenditures, while 90 per cent approve the idea in principle. If this is accurate, it is a minority that is in opposition.

There is only one answer for the freeing of the enslaved countries of Europe at the moment. Liberation of Hungary (and other satellites) can be attained only through the neutralization of eastern Europe.

Former Hungarian Premier Ferenc Nagy.

We might stir up more organized resistance than the move (of party headquarters from New York City to Chicago) is worth.

Akron, Ohio (AP)—Summit county is going to start charging again after years of taking care of federal prisoners "on the house." The U. S. A state examiner recently found that the county was out $798 over six years.

1957 Business Conditions Viewed as on Firm Course

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, April 10 — Well, the scare about business conditions is about over. Analysts who were gloomy in January in predicting what kind of year 1957 would be are getting more optimistic. It looks now as if this year will be one of the best in the history of American business.

Everything is relative, of course, because unless a current year shows "gains" over the preceding year, the talk is usually of a "decline" and maybe a "recession." But what's being discovered now is that 1957, while not a record-breaking year, will be good by almost any standard.

Within the last few days some significant surveys of the business situation have been issued which coincide in their appraisal of 1957 as a good year for business. Thus, the monthly letter of the First National City Bank says:

"On balance, the strong sectors in business offset the areas of weakness. There is no evidence that the rise in gross national product has halted; certainly, it has not turned down."

There are two major fields to which business surveys always give primary attention. One is the expenditures for heavy goods—plant and equipment—and the other is consumer spending. Here is what the bank's letter says on both:

"Business men are planning to spend $37.4 billion on new plant and equipment during 1957—an increase of 6½ per cent over the record-breaking 1956 outlays."

Near Goal

"Most of the scheduled rise from 1956 to 1957 had already been accomplished by the first quarter of 1957. To achieve their investment goal for the full year, business men need to increase their spending less than 2 per cent further. Second quarter outlays are already scheduled at a $38 billion annual rate, but these early expectations may not be fully realized, as has been the case in each of the last four quarters."

Estimates of expenditure patterns in the second half of 1957 are still very tentative, but the best guess is that they will be close to the first quarter rate."

Consumers are shown by surveys to be generally optimistic, though somewhat "price conscious and cautious." But, as the bank letter says, "on the whole, it is a picture of sustained, though not expansive, consumer buying interest."

Turning to the survey made by the economic division of "U. S. News & World Report" last week, we find this appraisal for 1957.

"Business, by almost any standards other than those of feverish boom, will be good in most lines. . . . In general, business activity will be on a plateau, with a few valleys appearing in places where expansion had gone too fast. . . .

"When it is all added up, the result is a year of spending about on a par with the spending level of late 1956. In total, 1957 promises to be a year of stability rather than a year of expansion. . . ."

No Boom, However

This doesn't mean that the brakes are soon to be off and another boom is in sight. There is no justification for extremes, either of pessimism or of optimism.

"What's happening really is that the American economy is demonstrating how it can absorb a dip in auto sales and a sharp decline in home building while other fields of activity more than make up for these weak spots—all this in a country whose output this year may total $425 billion. Also, war clouds in the Middle East are receding."

Much of the pessimism manifested in the first part of this year, due to the talk about the Federal budget being "too high." But the significance of the agitation was not in the probability that the present budget would be cut deeply and the economy upset by drastic reductions in government expenditure but in the effort to crystallize public opinion against further growth in the size of the annual budget.

Two Ways to Tax Cuts

For there are two methods talked about to achieve tax reduction—one is by cutting the present budget deeply and yielding a surplus. This contains some hazards in readjustment of business. The other way is to hold down the present budget with reductions of a billion or so and to depend on next year to encourage an enlargement of tax receipts due to healthy business conditions. A surplus of unexpected size can emerge, and, if it isn't immediately spent by the social-welfare boys in the Administration and on Capitol Hill, tax relief for the American people can be realized next year.

The first quarter of this year shows that business is set for 1957 on a firm course and that confidence is coming back where only a few weeks ago there was hesitation and talk of a "hair-curling depression." It was the long-range and not the short-range situation which was the real target of the Secretary of the Treasury's original remarks. The warning now has served its purpose and business can plan ahead on a sounder basis than ever before.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Washington, April 9—Something very mysterious is going on when a strange assortment of 67 self-qualified, polyglot designers and arbiters of the economic and political fate of our western world go into a secret huddle on an island off Brunswick, Ga., and not a word gets into the popular press beyond a little routine AP story which completely muffed the importance of the occasion. These gumshoe super-state architects and monetary schemers were drawn from all the NATO countries.

The fact of this weird conclave, as spooky as any midnight meeting of the Klux in a piney wood, was bound to get known to the world eventually. I got my first word of it from a reader who happened onto St. Simon Island, Brunswick, on her way to West Palm Beach. She wrote that the hotel on St. Simon was almost deserted, but that when she commented on this, the clerk said the place had been alive with mysterious characters a few days earlier and with secret service and FBI, too.

I have not verified whether secret service and FBI were there, but I did brace Ralph McGill, the editor of the Atlanta Constitution, by long distance and he put on a bland face and said yes, he had been there but had not thought the occasion required him, as a journalist, to write anything. Ralph said he divested himself of his journalistic nature for the conference and wanted me to treat his discussion confidentially.

But, after all, I was phoning him as a reporter to get information whereas he had made some mental and ethical arrangement with himself which allowed him to dejournalize himself for this extremely newsy meeting. However, I did agree not to quote him and will leave the facts to your judgment.

McGill and Arthur Hays Sulzberger, the publisher of the New York Times, were the only journalists invited to this thing and I observed to Ralph that it was pretty funny that with so many thousands of reporters and professional opinionarrians in this country, this conference tagged only those two and no others and they suppressed the story.

Elsewhere I was told that Sulzberger flew down from New York in his own ship.

Senator Harry Byrd of Virginia, a statesman who certainly rates consultation in such a seminar. Had not heard a word about it. He and the judiciary committee's sub-committee on subversion were highly interested. I keep emphasizing the secret because it was obviously planned that way. Judge Robert Morris, the counsel for the subcommittee, had received side-long tips and he was startled when I was able to put in his hands further information which was verified by my talk with McGill.

I told Byrd and Morris and I am telling you now about a queer parallel between this thing and a conference on Jekyll Island, Ga., a similar retreat, way back in 1908 in which the currency of the United States and of the world was manipulated, to what effect, whether for good or evil, opinions vary. Senator Aldrich, of Rhode Island, called this one into being. He was father of Winthrop Aldrich—General Motors combination, and they are all balled up with the Rockefeller. There is a Nelson Rockefeller, whose mother was John D. Jr.'s wife and Winthrop Aldrich's sister. There is a Winthrop Rockefeller too.

There have been many excited versions of that ancient hoo-doo on Jekyll Island in 1908, but relatively few have ever heard of it at all. Byrd frankly admitted that he had not. Neither had Morris. But long ago, B. C. Forbes, the biographer of American big business, told the wild, weird truth in a book and his version stands undisputed to this day. He wrote that Aldrich and a small, select group of American and European financiers, with a strong Kuhn-Loeb, Hamburg, representative, sneaked onto Jekyll Island and stayed a week in such secrecy that not even the servants knew who they were. They called one another by only their first names.

There were 68 on the roster for the recent meeting at St. Simon Island, but one who was there has told me that Ike's protégé, Paul Hoffman, now of the UN, did not accept. Tom Dewey did. And those present included the mysterious Gabriel Hauge, a "Lutheran lay minister, professor and economist" in the Wall Street Journal's description of the guy. He was there in the role of Eisenhower's "economic advisor." The Wall Street Journal said Hauge "helped teach Ike what to think."

I will have to continue this later (Copyright, 1957, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

On Their Own

Santa Fe, N. M. (AP)—When the 1957 New Mexico Legislature adjourned recently most lawmakers scurried around with cardboard boxes cleaning out their cluttered desks. Someone noted that at least a half dozen senatorial wives were in the upper chamber at the time—and none made a move to give an assist to the housecleaning.

Isinglass is the purest form of animal gelatin.

Believe It or Not!

The Parish Church of Roscomroe (about 6 miles north of Roscrea, Ireland) was built 1830 by the parishioners who freely donated both labor and materials. The only cost was a bill submitted by William O'Toole, architect, surveyor, builder, master carpenter and director of works. The bill was for 7 pounds (about $35) so that the church is still known as the Seven-Pound-Church.

Warning Is Given West Germany on Inflation Threat

Bonn, April 10 (AP) — Nearly everybody who wants a job in West Germany has one. Industrial production keeps climbing and climbing. The currency is strong.

Yet 75 per cent of West German families have an income of less than 600 marks ($150) a month and 72 per cent eat meat no more than four times a week. Only 11 per cent of the people own an electric refrigerator, one per cent a television set.

West Germany is bustling with unending building projects. Stores teem with customers.

Economically, the Bonn republic is an enigma.

A scant dozen years ago, the land lay in waste, shattered by war. Out of the ashes the Germans have rebuilt a nation with skyscrapers, opera houses and highways. Its household comforts are the most extensive on the continent.

Warns of Inflation

But all is not well. The first to admit it is Ludwig Erhard, the cigar-smoking minister of economics.

"We must fear inflation," he says. "We must keep prices down. We cannot afford a wage-price spiral."

In the 20s inflation destroyed the budding democracy of the Weimar republic and set the stage for Hitlerism.

Erhard fought hard last month to prevent bakers from imposing a substantial increase in bread. At his behest, the increase was scaled down.

But the cost of staples, particularly food stuffs, has increased.

The gross national product in 1955 was 29 billion dollars, equal to $392 a person. The U. S. national product was 341½ billion dollars, equal to $2,121 a person.

There is dissatisfaction among farmers, who have not been sharing fully in the economic recovery. On the living index a figure of 100 represents the level of 1938, the year before World War 2 started.

Earnings Are More

Industrial earnings are up to 246 while living costs stand at 178. The cost of farm materials has gone to 224, while income from farm products has increased only to 213.

There is also a threat of an end to postwar harmony between management and labor. Unionists are stepping up their demands to shorten the work week to 42 hours, and without a loss of pay. Industrial workers now average 48 hours a week, farm workers 64.

In a city of 500,000 persons, 125,000 now living will eventually develop cancer and 80,000 will die of it, at present rates.

Mr. Klotzberger further explained that enrolment will be limited in both groups because of lack of space and staff. To facilitate registration, parents are asked to bring the children to be registered and they should bring the children's birth certificates.

Memories of school days must have come back to Kingston businessmen who participated in Tuesday's "Operation High School" program which familiarized them with many of the phases of running a modern secondary school system. (Freeman photo)

Businessmen Get First Hand View Of High School

The city's first annual "Operation High School" program, designed to familiarize leading community businessmen with various aspects of secondary school educational and administrative procedures, took place Tuesday afternoon at Kingston High School.

Some 50 guests comprising the visiting group were greeted by Principal Clifford Miller and Robert O'Reilly of the Board of Education for a briefing on elements of the school system. Mrs. Vincent G. Connelly, also a member of the education board, was present.

List of Speakers

Other officials and faculty members who addressed the businessmen included Dr. Earl Soper, Superintendent of Schools, who spoke on "The Problems of the Secondary School," Robert MacDonald, assistant superintendent, who discussed "The Business of Running a system," and James Tobin, director of guidance.

Also, Leonard Stine, whose discussion concerned "The Music Program," Herbert Hoderath, on "Industrial and Vocational Education," and G. Warren Kias, who talked on "Physical Education and Athletics."

Following these talks, the choir offered a short program of musical selections.

Visitors' Tours

Special tours of selected areas of educational specialties for the visitors' preference were then conducted by Miss Lois Prescott, Miss Anne Donovan, Peter Etienne, James Tobin, Herbert Hoderath, Mrs. William Murray, Mrs. Virginia Norwood, G. Warren Kias, Mrs. Edith Case Murphy and Mr. Clifford Miller.

An opportunity for the guests to meet with the entire school faculty was afforded them at the close of the school day in the cafeteria.

Business of Education

For the past two years city school teachers have been entertained at a special Business Education Day in January. At those times they visited area business establishments to find out first hand information on employment opportunities available to high school graduates.

Yesterday's program, which the school hopes to continue next year, demonstrated to the faculty's former hosts the "Business of Education."

Arrangements for the day were planned by Albert Kurdt of the Chamber of Commerce, with the assistance of James Tobin and Mrs. Edith Case Murphy of the high school staff.

First Constitution First Hand View Of High School

ors here will at first be unfamiliar with Thomas Chambers, John Vanderlynn and General George Henry Sharpe. But conversation with townspeople will acquaint them with Kingston's Lord of the Manor, its noted artist and its Civil War aide to General Grant.

Many out-of-town visitors will walk into the flagstone-cellar, lower their heads to avoid the heavy hand-hewn beams and see the hutch table and giant-sized chopping bowl of Kingston's ancestors. And they will ask questions.

At the Senate Museum

A recent chat with Mrs. Mary Black Terwilliger, historic site superintendent of the Senate House Museum, 312 Fair street, opened wide vistas into Kingston memorabilia and satisfied one curious visitor.

Mrs. Terwilliger, who has bright brown eyes and a warm feeling for the past, has ministered to curious sightseers since January, 1940.

She calls the Senate House, just across a small grass lawn from the museum, "a shrine within itself."

Thomas Chambers signed the deed for Kingston with the Indians on June 5, 1652, and it was written in Dutch, Mrs. Terwilliger explains.

She points to the yellow parchment, withered with age, with pride and a sparkle on her face.

"It is laminated and will never fade," she says nostalgically.

A storehouse of memories

The Senate House Museum, a two-story white structure with ten rooms, is a storehouse of monuments and memories.

Mrs. Terwilliger relates how General Grant to Appomattox and points to the general's sword with the knowledge of an historian.

"That piece of black crepe around the sword is in mourning for President Lincoln's death," she says. "All Union generals wore it."

Mrs. Terwilliger notes that John Vanderlynn, who was one of early America's outstanding artists, was born in Kingston on Oct. 15, 1775.

Bonaparte's Choice

"That's a famous unfinished copy of his painting 'Marius at the Ruins of Carthage,'" she points out, mounting the stairs to the upper floor. "For the original, Napoleon Bonaparte gave him a gold medal, having picked out the painting from 1,200 other art works at the Louvre."

The aimable guide for Kingston's visitors asks: "Do you know who educated Vanderlynn?"

Burr as His Patron

A shake of the head brings this reply: "Aaron Burr was his patron, which makes him doubly interesting." When Mrs. Terwilliger speaks of the lame artist, called by Burr "the first painter that now is or ever has been in America," she does so with a sense of warmth and attainment.

Most of the works in the museum were done by Vanderlynn, who painted Andrew Jackson, James Monroe, Martin Van Buren and John Calhoun, among others.

Before walking upstairs, Mrs. Terwilliger points out that in the Governors Room on the main floor are photographs and autographs of each elected governor of New York, and some colonial governors.

Swords and Glassware

On the second floor are swords, powder horns, glassware and china used by forebears of present Kingstonians.

"But it's the wampum belt that all the kids want to see," says Mrs. Terwilliger.

Between two display rooms is a little alcove filled with manuscripts, histories and pamphlets, brown at the edges. "Here people come and do research," Mrs. Terwilliger explains.

"We're helpful to many students here doing different kinds of studies," she adds. "In fact, I'm having Harvard teacher here tomorrow to work on his Ph.D., mind you."

A Pass to Gen. Sharpe

Mrs. Terwilliger stops before a case filled with Civil War relics. "That's a pass given to General Sharpe by General Lee to go from Appomattox over to the Federal lines," she explains, pointing to the sepia-colored document.

The original signature of the South's leader can still be seen.

Asked about a model of a small berry boat, Mrs. Terwilliger says with a smile:

"That's the old Riverside, the steam-driven chain ferry called a 'Skippit,' which was at one time the only means of crossing Rondout Creek."

"As kids, we used to call it the 'Otherside,' because whenever we wanted it, it was on the otherside."

At the Senate House

In the Senate House at North Front street and Clinton avenue, Miss Katherine Millard, assistant attendant of the partially restored edifice, tells of its background.

"This is where the first New York State Senate held its first meeting," she says.

Lighting two of the candles in the south room, where the session took place on Sept. 9, 1777, Miss Millard remarks:

"Reading just the way the senators might have makes you use your imagination, almost brings you back. I'm not that old, you know."

Built by Ten Broeck

Miss Millard explains that Colonel Wessel Ten Broeck built the house in 1676 as his home and, in 1777, loaned the south room to the state.

"It's hard for us to realize the Senate was so small—only 24 members then," she adds.

"The first session lasted from Sept. 9 to Oct. 16, when the British burnt down Kingston and the senators fled to old stone houses three miles out to Old Hurley."

This is part of the heritage of Kingston residents and doubtless, the new stream of visitors who in the past have included Franklin D. Roosevelt, Joe DiMaggio and Queen Juliana of the Netherlands, will hear more.

knows no personal criticism fired at him has had any adverse effect on his health. He made that remark after a reporter said the President has been criticized recently with respect to White House acquisition of helicopters for his use, and for what the newsmen termed speeding on the highways.

CONGRESS RELATIONS—Commenting on what a reporter referred to as growing opposition in Congress to some phases of the administration's legislative program, Eisenhower said that American politics is a history of the clash of opinion.

He added that he does not think that the fact he is precluded from running for a third term has anything to do with any opposition to his program that may be developing at the Capitol.

RED CHINA TRADE—Asked how the Administration feels about Britain and Japan trading with Red China, Eisenhower said there has been a great deal of talk regarding that situation and that many people maintain it doesn't make sense to permit trade with Soviet Russia on certain items and to attempt to bar trade with Communist China.

Turning to Japan specifically, Eisenhower said it is a nation of 90 million people who want to be our friends. Without trade, Eisenhower asked, what is Japan going to do—how is it going to make a living and how is it going to keep going?

CITY DEVELOPMENT—Eisenhower said he is very heartily in favor of urban development and was disturbed by some things a delegation of mayors told him earlier in the week regarding efforts to obtain financing for urban renewal programs.

But he said he had made no pledge to the mayors as to fed-

Martin Goodwrich Dies During Night

The body of an elderly Ulster Park caretaker, with only two cents in his pockets, was found early this morning, dead, apparently of a heart attack.

Martin Goodwrich, "60 or 70 years old," died during the night in the summer home of John Nakonechney, according to Francis J. McCordle, County Coroner.

No further identification would be available until the man's employer, Mr. Nakonechney arrived from New York, Mr. McCordle said.

Deputy Sheriff Arthur Smith said the body was found at 1:50 a. m. by Mr. Nakonechney's son, Edward, who summoned a neighbor, Francis Rebel. Mr. Rebel notified the Sheriff's office.

are unlawful and have been conducted for an unlawful purpose.

Claim Coercion

The company claims that while the picketing has had the avowed purpose of persuading employees to join the unions, "it has in practice been conducted as a means of coercion against the company to force the employees into the union."

The methods applied to assert pressure upon the company, according to its attorneys, has been to interfere with shipments in and out of the plant, and to prevent trucking companies and others from rendering service.

Violation, Firm Says

Such activities, the company charges, are not lawful and constitute a violation of the state labor relations act.

Channel Master was represented in the argument before Justice Bookstein by its attorneys, Abraham Streifer of Kingston, and Mr. Berger. Teamster Local 445 was represented by Attorney Francis Martocci of Kingston, and Local 810 by O'Connell and Aronowitz of Albany.

Endorsed by Labor

Efforts to organize truck drivers, wrapping, packing, warehousing, shipping and receiving employees at the plant had reportedly received the endorsement of other area trade unions.

George E. Yuddy Jr., president of the Hudson Valley District Council of Carpenters, said last Friday that his union was supporting the organizational effort "and other trades have signified their support."

Mr. Yerry said a meeting was held March 27 in Ellenville and was attended by 20 business agents of local trades unions from Kingston, Ellenville and Sullivan county.

It was reported Feb. 14 that efforts were being made to organize employees of the firm, and an official of the company said at that time "the company is paying the highest wages in its industry, well above the average for its area."

Harold Stangel, personnel director of the firm, cited benefits from the profit sharing retirement plan.

The company is reportedly the world's largest manufacturer of television antennas.

Mayor Stang also reviewed the latest plans for the proposed arterial route from the upper end of Broadway to Route 28 in the vicinity of Thruway Gate No. 19. He also said that since service on the O & W Railroad has been discontinued, he has renewed his request for the earliest possible removal of the Washington avenue viaduct.

Plans for the annual membership campaign were also approved as proposed by chairman Silkworth of the Membership Committee. Another one day campaign will be held probably on April 30, to coincide with the beginning of the fiscal year.

Quinn Resigns, Ouster Vote Was Near in Council

New York, April 10 (AP)—City Councilman Hugh Quinn, a Democrat recently under investigation on charges his business activities conflicted with his political office, resigned yesterday just before a council vote on an ouster motion.

It was reported that a majority of the council, predominantly Democratic, favored removing him from office.

Quinn, a member of the council for 19 years, said his "conscience is completely clear" and felt sure he would have been vindicated in a council vote. But he said his political office had been a great sacrifice to his business affairs and family.

The 55-year-old councilman said he withheld his resignation long enough to get his side of the story before the public. He added that he was "not quitting politics."

"Of the stations monitored," Shafro declared, "90 per cent of the violations were found on only one fourth of these stations." Shafro, speaking to the National Assn. of Radio and Television Broadcasters, did not identify the stations.

Albany, N. Y., April 10 (AP)—Gov. Harriman today signed a bill making the sportsmen's "license year" Oct. 1 to Sept. 30. Most licenses have been for the calendar year starting Jan. 1. The new year will apply to hunting, fishing, trapping, big-game and special archery licenses. In a memorandum, Harriman said it had been "a long-standing irritant to sportsmen" that game law booklets distributed with licenses do not contain revisions made at the latest legislative session.

Warning devices on early automobiles included bells, bulb horns, sirens and whistles operated by the vehicle's exhaust.

Why We Say--

BABY DIAPERS

NAMED FOR A CITY: It may not be of much interest to the average infant-wearer of diapers, but the city of d'Ypres in Flanders is the place to thank for the invention and first manufacture of diapers. The word diaper is, of course, merely a different spelling of the city.

Defective Diet Linked to Major Cause of Death

Miami, Fla., April 10 (AP)—Indications that the "defective diet" of many Americans has a lot to do with the prevalence of atherosclerosis—the nation's leading single cause of death—were reported to the American Chemical Society Tuesday.

Atherosclerosis, a major cause of heart disease and hemorrhage of the brain, is a degeneration of the walls of the arteries.

A team of scientists from the Medical Research Institute of Chicago said in a report prepared for the society that atherosclerosis would occur rarely were it not for derangements in the way the body makes use of fat.

The researchers, Ruth Pick, Jeremiah Stamler and Louis N. Katz, said prevention of the disease "should involve simple, rational adjustments to correct the defects in the American diet."

Though they emphasized an individual case of atherosclerosis can involve many factors other than diet—including hormones, heredity and blood pressure levels—they said research has shown that among population groups as a whole the food that is eaten appears to have a definite bearing on the number of cases of atherosclerosis.

In every case in which the typical diet is high in fats and calories but low in essential nutrients, minerals and vitamins, atherosclerosis is frequent, the scientists found. On the other hand, the disease is rare among people living on low-fat, low-calorie diets.

Low Fat Diet Helps
Another indication that diet may have an important bearing on arterial disorders is the fact that atherosclerosis death rates declined during the Second World War in nations forced by conditions into low fat diets. The death rates rose again when the war ended and normal eating habits were resumed.

The "defective diet" prevalent among Americans was described by the researchers as one "rich in calories and relatively or absolutely deficient in essential nutrients—a special type of malnutrition combined with overnutrition."

The team said further study is needed to identify the more harmful types of fats but recommended that meat be broiled instead of fried or roasted, that gravies, sauces and dressings be left off menus and that fruit be used for desserts.

Red Cross Fund Is 30 Per Cent From Local Goal

Attorney Francis X. Tucker, chairman of the local Red Cross fund campaign, has announced that the chapter has achieved 70 per cent of its goal of $37,000.

Mr. Tucker urged division chairman and canvassers to continue their efforts in order to reach the goal. He said the campaign will be extended through April, if necessary.

The Red Cross fund chairman said that disaster operations so far this year have been unusually heavy and the national organization is facing a critical situation in reduced operating funds.

Mr. Tucker asks those who have not made a contribution to send it to the chapter at 308 Clinton avenue and they will receive a membership card and window sticker by mail.

To Exchange Mates

San Francisco, April 10 (AP)—Two couples at nearby Millbrae are exchanging partners, the husbands involved said yesterday. Martin Brooks, 35, operator of a garden and pet supply company, and Dr. Frank E. Schwartz, 38, said their wives went to Reno together last week to get divorces. The men said the close friendship developed in two years. Brooks and Jean Schwartz, 33, are fond of sports while Schwartz and Betty Brooks, 35, like color photography, music and painting.

Ben-Gurion Vacations

Jerusalem, Israel Sector, April 10 (AP)—Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion began today a much-postponed vacation amid appearances of a general relaxation of the atmosphere in Israel as it prepared for the Passover holidays. This news tended to dissipate rumors, printed abroad, which until yesterday were picturing Israel as ready to begin an attack on her Arab neighbor, Jordan. Ben-Gurion, 70, will take 10 days to two weeks of rest in an undisclosed retreat, and probably will be away from his post over the Passover holidays which begin at sundown Monday. Apparently the premier felt the crisis has eased enough for him to take a much needed rest.

Vets, Families Urged to Report Status Changes

Veterans and their families should be on the alert to report any change in their status which could affect payment of compensation and pension, according to the NYS Division of Veterans Affairs and Howard Shurter, director of the Ulster County Veterans Service Agency.

The Veterans' official cited a few examples of occurrences which may be considered as changes in status. A decrease in disability, commission of fraud by the person receiving compensation with or without his knowledge, receipt of active service or retirement pay, separation of claimant and wife or children, and death of the veteran or a dependent are among the factors listed.

Veterans and members of their families who are unclear as to the full significance of a changed set of circumstances affecting compensation and pension payments are urged by Director Shurter to contact the State Division of Veterans Affairs office and the Ulster County Service Veterans Agency at 32 Main street, Kingston or any of the branch offices at Ellenville, Highland, Kerhonkson and Saugerties.

SOCIETY AND PERSONALS

Chris Looney of the Possum Flat Bugle has a queer idea of humor. A wedding occurred in Possum Flat last Wednesday and Looney printed the story in the following original fashion, many violent deaths resulting:

"The groom wore a well-tailored suit of dark material which was very becoming. His shoes were of black patent leather and both shoes were well polished. His socks were of black silk to match the suit and shoes. He wore a white stiff-bosomed shirt, gates-ajar collar and white linen tie. His shirt studs and cufflinks were made of platinum inlaid with pearl. The bride was attired in the conventional white."

Several members of the Friends Church drove to New York last week to deliver supplies to the Friends meeting there and afterward to attend the National Flower Show.

There will be another teenage dance at Clintonville Grange Hall Friday night. Dancing from 7:30 until 11 p. m.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold L. Dingee and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph VanSiclen were visitors in Hyde Park Sunday.

Seek Chicken Ban

Huntington, W. Va. (AP)—The Huntington Humane Society asked the city to ban the sale of chicks and ducklings as Easter pets for children.

The Society said that aside from its opposition on the ground to cruelty to animals (children often cause the death of these pets by cruel or constant handling), the children themselves may be afflicted by them.

The Humane Society quoted from the Journal of the American Medical Assn. that among diseases traced to such pets is an intestinal infection similar to parrot fever.

6,000 Attend Reopening Of Gov. Clinton Market

An estimated 6,000 persons attended the four-day grand reopening celebration of the Governor Clinton Market, 777 Broadway, last week, it was announced today by owner John De Gasperis Sr.

Mr. DeGasperi said public acceptance of the renovated meat and grocery store was "terrific, and beyond my fondest expectations." Free gifts and awards were featured during four-day period, Wednesday through Saturday.

He said he felt good quality and customer treatment at the Governor Clinton Market for more than 35 years "has merited continued public confidence in our establishment. He pledged that the same personalized service will continue in the refurbished market.

Large scale modern improvements at the market include a big meat storage cooler, where all meat is stored, and an elaborate rail system which moves meat from the cooler to the meat-cutting room. A secondary service has been installed behind the meat counter, which saves time for both clerks and customers. Aisles throughout the store have been enlarged and an automatic speedy check-out system installed. Orders are moved automatically along a conveyor belt for a more efficient check-out operation.

Contractors, Suppliers
Contractors and suppliers for the renovated market were the Home Decorators, 69 Albany avenue, Kingston; Ulster Electric Supply Company, 572 Broadway, Kingston; Island Dock Lumber, Inc., Island Dock, Kingston; Kingston Lumber Company, 344 Fair street, Kingston; Rubino Refrigeration Co., Newburgh; DeCrosta Food Machine Company, Newburgh; T. J. O'Rielly, electrical contractor, 242 Elmendorf street, Kingston; John S. Provenzano, floor and wall covering, 25 Golf Terrace, Kingston; Luke Sheeley, plumbing contractor, Washington avenue, Kingston; Preston Knight, refrigeration service, Lucas avenue extension, Kingston.

The original Governor Clinton Market was established in 1923 at 773 Broadway, next door to its present location. In 1952 self-service operation was adopted and major improvements took place at that time. Now, five years later, business has increased to the degree where the present expansion program was deemed necessary.

Alterations of the new store, for the most part, were done by Mr. DeGasperi, who proudly points to "building as my hobby."

"I plan now to relax but not retire and leave the greater share of the store operation to my sons, John Jr., and Edmond." He also praised the efficiency of Paul Misove, manager of the grocery department, "who has been with me 25 years and who I regard as a member of my family," and Joseph Carroll, head of the produce department.

His son-in-law, James Secreto, is also associated with Mr. DeGasperi in the operation of the market.

Dream Fulfilled

Mr. DeGasperi said in 1923 he envisioned an operation like the present store, "and this is, indeed, a dream fulfilled. He credited a "very efficient staff" for the realization of that dream.

Orders can be delivered to the home for a minimum fee and pay checks will be cashed for added customer convenience. Enlarged free parking facilities are also provided.

The avocation of carpentering and full time attention to merchandising have combined to vault Mr. DeGasperi into prominence in the food market field.

AMERICAN MENU

Duck Garnished With Apples Makes a Gala Easter Dinner

ROAST DUCK garnished with apples stuffed with horseradish will make Easter dinner an occasion to be remembered.

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor
Maedy Seabrook is a wonderful cook. She lives on a mammoth farm in south New Jersey and loves to entertain other members of the family.

Now, with the acres turning gentle green and Easter just ahead, we talked about a gala family Easter dinner. The hospitable Maedy (Mrs. Courtney Seabrook) suggests among other things, ducks roasted crisp and golden brown garnished with horseradish-stuffed apples, grapefruit and cucumber salad and her sister-in-law's famous rhubarb cream pie.

Roast Duck, Apple Garnish
Soak ducks briefly in ice-cold salted water. Drain and wipe dry. Place one peeled apple and one peeled onion in the cavity of each duck. Roast ducks in open pan in moderate (350 degrees F.) oven for 45 minutes or until crisp and lightly browned.

Meanwhile, core apples, one for each serving. Peel a strip from top of each. Stick whole cloves around the top. Fill centers with a mixture of 2 teaspoons horseradish, 1 teaspoon raisins and 1/2 teaspoon sugar. Sprinkle more sugar over the tops.

When ducks are golden crisp, remove from oven, pour all pan drippings into bowl. Place bowl in coldest part of refrigerator. Arrange apples around ducks in roasting pan, cover pan with foil. Return to oven, lower heat to 300 degrees F. and roast 2 to 3 hours longer. Remove ducks and apples to platter. Keep warm. Remove all fat from chilled pan drippings. Then thicken juices with 3 tablespoons flour, slowly add 2 1/2 cups stock, made by simmering neck and giblets in salted water as duck roasted. Simmer gravy until smooth and thickened.

EASTER DINNER: Pineapple-strawberry cup, roast duck, apple-horseradish garnish, whipped sweet potatoes, fresh asparagus, lemon butter, grapefruit and cucumber salad, hot yeast rolls, butter or margarine, rhubarb cream pie, coffee, tea, milk.

Booming Hobby

Peoria, Ill. (P)—Cap Naramore collects Civil War cannons. "It took a lot of work to get them together," Cap declares. "I started collecting cannon barrels back in 1909 and kept it up until 1940." Cap's complaint is that most people don't appreciate a good cannon when they see one. "Fishermen want to use the cannon barrels for seine equipment," he said. He has redone old cannon for museums because they took good care of them. He's even buried cannon barrels in the earth when scrap was going for a good price for fear somebody would get too itchy around his place on a moonless night.

Too Late

Dallas, Tex. (P)—A. E. Brunson was 49 years late getting to the courthouse with a witness affidavit for $5. He said he had just found the affidavit issued to his wife, who died 15 years ago, in 1908 for serving as a civil suit witness. Officials couldn't find any law enabling the state to pay the old fee.

Set New Paltz Art Workshop For August 12-23

A summer workshop in art for high school students is being scheduled at State University Teachers College, New Paltz from August 12 to 23, it was announced this week by Dr. Ralph Wickiser, chairman of the Division of Art Education.

Offered to high school students who will be in their senior year beginning September, the workshop will provide opportunity to do extensive work in drawing, painting, clay modeling, ceramics, sculpture, and crafts.

Limited in Choice

Because the primary purpose is for the students to do intensive work, they will be limited in their choice to not more than two of the areas. They may, if they wish, spend the entire time working on one area.

Hours of the workshop during the two-week session, Dr. Wickiser announced, will be from 9 to 11:30 and from 1 to 3:30 daily, Monday through Friday, and a number of social and recreational events are being offered during other hours of the day. The students will be invited to participate in the regular activity program of the college's summer session as well as events planned especially for them.

Students will be housed in one of the college dormitories under the supervision of a college staff member, and meals will be provided in the dining room of the College Union Building.

No Tuition Charge

There is no tuition for the workshop but students will be charged a nominal fee to cover the cost of lodging, meals, instructional materials and incidental expenses.

Larry Argiro, associate professor of art, is in charge of the program and he has asked that teachers who have students interested in the workshop write to him for more detailed information at Art Education Division, State University Teachers College, New Paltz.

A police report said Slater's sedan was headed north on Smith avenue, and the car of Elmer Schoonmaker, 37, of Box 128 High Falls, was going east on Garden street.

Theft Reported

Theft of a Western Electric test set and an amplifier from a New York Telephone Company truck was reported to local police yesterday afternoon. The items, valued at more than $100, were taken from a truck parked at the rear of the Bruhn avenue garage.

CONSTIPATED?

New laxative discovery un-locks bowel blocks without gag, bloat or gripe

Constipation is caused by what doctors call a "thrift" colon that, instead of retaining moisture as it should, does the opposite: robs the colon of so much moisture that its contents become dehydrated, so dry that they block the bowel; so shrunken that they fail to excite or stimulate the urge to purge that propels and expels waste from your body.

To regain normal regularity, the dry, shrunken, constipating contents of your colon which now block your bowel must be re-moistened. Second, bulk must be brought to your colon to S-T-R-E-T-C-H STIMULATE it to action; to a normal urge to purge.

And, of all laxatives, only COLONOID, the amazing new laxative discovery possesses COLONOID's great moisturiz-ing capacity, plus COLONOID's stretch-stimulating bulk. So effective it relieves even chronic constipation overnight, COLONOID is yet so smooth, so gentle it has proved safe even for women in critical stages of pregnancy. Superior to old style bulk, salt or drug laxatives, COLONOID neither gags, bloats nor gripes; won't interfere with absorption of vitamins and other valuable food nutrients; in clinical tests, did not cause rash or other reactions. It's a physiological fact: Exercise tones your body! And COLONOID exercises your colon to tone it against constipation, overnight! Get COLONOID, in easy-to-take tablet form at any drug counter, today! Only 98c for the 60 tablet package, brings positive relief at less than 2c per tablet.

road also brought with it, he added.

A Business Rise

The Thruway has been a prime factor in the recent move of business to the Kingston area. Such newcomers as IBM, with its half-million dollar weekly payroll, have meant five to six thousand more jobs in the area, and, therefore, more dollars.

Why hasn't business in Kingston boomed proportionately with the growth of industry, people, and money? Again the traffic problem, particularly the uptown parking difficulty, has been the obstruction.

Buyers Available

"The buyers are available," Mr. Kurtz said, "but not the physical access to the shops."

By several major improvement projects, both state and city officials hope to break through the road block.

Legislation already passed in Albany places a new highway, referred to as the Route 209 Extension, on the state highway map. This direct route from Hurley to Route 9W would bypass Kingston and should keep most through-travellers out of the business district.

As for parking, several uptown sites are under consideration for the construction of a multi-story garage for shoppers' cars.

Problems Continue

Meanwhile, the traffic troubles continue, and Mr. Kurtz foresees a "terrible time this summer with the tourist flow added to normal traffic."

"But it's certain," he said, "that there's going to be an immense general expansion throughout the Hudson Valley from Schenectady to Albany."

The Shoes Returned

One amusing incident almost turned one of the student's hair white at his stay in the Governor Clinton Hotel. Michael Silver entered his room and remarked to his two room-mates:

"It looks exactly like the room we stayed in while in Washington, D. C. Same wallpaper, same layout, etc. All I have to do now is find my scraggy white buckskin shoes in the closet, and I'll believe in reincarnation and ghosts."

The next morning Mike opened the closet, rubbed his eyes, and there they were—the same soiled bucks, just as he'd left them in Washington, D. C. It seems like gnomes had sneaked into the room the night before and placed them there.

Later, janky Jim Ashlock, who ranges at 6 ft. 8 in., revealed, as the true reporter he, that he'd seen the shoes in the closet the day before. That's a laconic truth, for you.

Roaming Town

Last Tuesday night, the students roamed Kingston streets looking for The Freeman's uptown office. They got a little confused and passed through the Old Dutch cemetery twice. Finally, after questioning a goodly number of persons, they struck pay dirt and arrived at the office, a little chilled about the ears, but there. The remark was made: "Well, we've already met everyone in town. That's a good start."

Professor Ellard, who has been leading similar field trips to Middletown and Tarrytown during the school semester for fourteen years, remembers when Wayne Phillips and Mort Stern worked on The Freeman in 1949.

Mr. Phillips' name is a frequent byline on the front page of The New York Times and Mr. Stern is managing editor of The Denver Post.

So it must be good experience.

way's name later became official through state legislation.

In the latter part of his talk, Mr. Huben lauded Mr. Dexter for his leadership. He said,

"By your leadership, understanding and human foresight, you have made impressions on this area which will remain long after we have gone."

Group Advised

Mr. Dexter spoke only three minutes telling the group what it must do to keep people coming to Ulster and Greene counties.

"People come where they are invited," he emphasized. "They stay where they are used best."

The Ulster-Greene Vacationland organization was formed in 1942 under the direction of Mr. Dexter and Mr. Huben. Mr. Huben said that through helping the region develop, Central Hudson would also benefit.

The Boards of Supervisors in Ulster and Greene counties were presented the idea. They in turn appointed publicity committees to work with Mr. Dexter and Mr. Huben.

Vigorous Campaign

A vigorous promotion campaign was instigated through newspapers, radio and resort owners. More than 2,800 booklets boosting the region's attractions have been distributed throughout the nation.

Funds for the promotion come from the counties' treasuries. The original appropriation amounted to little over $1,000. But the campaign has been so successful that the latest appropriation is $9,500, with Ulster contributing $5,500 and Greene $4,000. Twenty-two towns are included in the campaign.

Frederick Hoffman of the Kingston Daily Freeman introduced Ulster County officials involved in the program.

He introduced Jacob Rogers of Saugerties as the first chairman of the Ulster committee. Serving with him were Edwin Ashby and Joseph Koenig, both of Kingston; Deyo W. Johnson and Charles F. Kaiser, both of Wawarsing; and Andrew J. Snyder of Rosendale.

Re-nalnd Every of Shandaken was the second chairman, followed by Lawrence D. Craft of Ellenville, now county clerk. James Martin of Kingston is the present chairman. On his committee are John Gaffney of Lloyd, W. Morton Bertrand of Shandaken, Joseph Fitzsimmons of Woodstock, Donald A. Sprague of Wawarsing and Edward Eckert of Esopus.

Others Recognized

Others recognized for their work on the group were Kenneth Wilson, state assemblyman from Woodstock, E. Robert Cousins of Kingston, George Fichtner of Shandaken, Charles Relyea of Hurley, Peter Williams of Saugerties, Raymond Howe of Esopus and James A. Simpson of Shandaken.

Mr. Warren introduced officers of the resort groups in Ulster county. They included:

Thomas Bohan, Esopus Chamber of Commerce; Guy Torsone, Highland Chamber of Commerce; J. Ellis Briggs and Joseph O'Connor, Kingston Chamber of Commerce; Frank Greco, Mt. Marion Resort Assn.; Harold Phillips, New Paltz Chamber of Commerce; Claude Bell, Olive Chamber of Commerce; Carroll Simpson, Phoenicia; Mr. Bertrand, Pine Hill; Edward O'Reilly and Ino Spindler, Rosendale Publicity Assn., and D. R. Levitan, Saugerties Chamber of Commerce.

Greene County Officials

Howard Silberstein, editor of the Catskill Daily Mail in Catskill, introduced Greene County's officials involved in the program. They included:

Thomas Teich and Eugene Bartels of Leeds; D. Harold Bush, Milton O. Bailey, William H. Donahue, Raymond Gall, Oliver Stalter, Carl Ratsch, Harry Gordon and Davis Jacobs of Hunter; Sal Resch, John J. Fromer and Paul Fromer of Tannersville; Theodore Banta and Charles G. Herring of Cairo.

Editors Introduced

In introducing the counties' editors who backed the promotion campaign, Mr. Gardner first recognized Frederick Bleazarde of the Ravena News, terming him the "dean of Hudson Valley editors."

Others recognized included Mr. Stalter of the Coxsackie Union News; Mr. Ratsch of the Greene County Examiner-Recorder; Mr. Gall of the Catskill Enterprise; Donald Fellows of the Catskill Mountain Star; William Rising of the Saugerties Post; Joseph Kelly and Mr. Hoffman of the Kingston Daily Freeman; John Dittmar of the Rosendale News; Thomas McKinney of the Hudson Valley Newspapers; Bob Browning of radio station WSKN and Jack Marquardt of WKNY; Harold Borean of the Highland News; Frank Muller of the Ellenville Journal and Harry Thayer of the Ellenville Press.

Also introduced were Emil Wondracek, travel editor of the New York Daily Mirror, and Michael C. Starkman of Valley Advertising Company.

Life-Termer Dies

Fort Madison, Iowa, April 10 (AP)—Tom Runyon, 51, Iowa prison life-termer who was nationally known as a writer, died unexpectedly of a heart attack at the State Penitentiary here today. Runyon, a free-wheeling bank robber in the 1930s, was serving time for the 1935 slaying of an Iowa farmer. He was also under life sentence for the $3,100 robbery of an Eyota, Minn. bank.

Poughkeepsie to Get New City Manager

Hartford, Conn., April 10 (AP)—John J. Desmond resigned as town manager here today to assume a similar post at Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

Town manager here since 1951, Desmond said he would become city manager at Poughkeepsie on May 26 at an increase of $1,000 over his current $11,500 yearly salary here.

Desmond is a veteran of 22 years' experience in municipal management. He is married and the father of four children.

Leaves Prison Free Man

Boston, April 10 (AP)—Santos Rodriguez, 26, was a free man today after the state of Massachusetts rectified the mistake under which he was sentenced to life in prison for a murder he did not commit. He had served 2½ years. The Puerto Rican restaurant worker walked out of the prison colony at Norfolk last night wearing a new suit the state gave him and with $52 in cash he had earned in prison.

Blast Injures Crewmen

Palm Springs, Calif., April 10 (AP)—A supercharger exploded on a navy P2V patrol bomber flying at 12,000 feet and three crewmen were injured during an emergency landing. The twin-engine plane, en route from its home base at Norfolk, Va., to Seattle, was over India yesterday when the supercharger exploded, sending white hot pieces of metal through the fuselage and breaking cabin windows. Several small fires were started.

Local governments participating in the program include New York city and Broome, Cayuga, Chemung, Dutchess, Erie, Jefferson, Monroe, Nassau, Niagara, Oneida, Onondaga, Ontario, Orange, Rockland, Saratoga, Schenectady, Suffolk, Ulster, Warren, Washington, Wayne and Westchester counties.

Hoover Gets Top Award

Chicago, April 10 (AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover yesterday won the highest award of the National Assn. of Radio and Television Broadcasters. The broadcasters gave Hoover the 1957 keynote award and, joined by President Eisenhower, lauded him for helping the radio industry in its infant days. He was the first person not professionally associated with the industry to receive the group's top award.

volved. It was not necessary to hold a referendum at that time since the Common Council approved the bond issue in 1950. In 1951 under a new law the Board of Education became a separate entity in city government and under that law any bond issue running more than five years must be voted at a referendum.

It was pointed out that the financing of the Kate Walton Field House was a short term issue.

Attending the meeting last evening was vice president Robert O'Reilly, who presided in the absence of president Robert Herzog. Sponsored by the PTA, Mrs. Walter Donnaruma, president of the group, presented Mr. O'Reilly as moderator of the session. Present representing the board of education were Trustees Mrs. Vincent G. Connelly, David Kline, Chester Baltz Sr. and Judge Bruhn.

100 Persons Attend

Approximately 100 attended the session and during the question and answer period there were many who participated. Dr. Soper spoke and emphasized that the State Education Department would not allow any school district to build a school on the basis of rural enrollment, that the need for a school must be shown to exist among the children living in the district, in this particular instance children living within the City of Kingston.

The next meeting will be held Thursday evening at 8 o'clock at School No. 4. The session last evening was broadcast over WKNY as a public service.

Floor Plans for Proposed Junior High School

Education Plans
Are Described

Drawings by Architect Augustus R. Schrowang of the proposed new junior high school at Dietz Stadium are reproduced above.

In a brochure issued by the Kingston Board of Education, the education plans of the school are described as follows:

First Floor Plan
The building will be constructed of modern design and laid out to accomplish superior educational results. The 29 regular classrooms are 24 ft. x 32 ft., having 768 sq. ft., meeting state requirements. These rooms will have chalk boards, bulletin boards, open bookshelves, storage closet, a teacher's closet and work cabinet.

You will notice, that the cafeteria, auditorium and gym are close together to permit public use in the evening without access to other portions of the building. The proximity of these special facilities also requires less pupil movement about the building in passing classes. The cafeteria is of modest size seating 320 and requiring two or three noon time sittings for the 1000 pupils in attendance. The auditorium seats 550. Recommended limits placed on the auditorium for such a school are about 650. Since two assemblies would be required, a seating capacity of 550 is deemed sufficient and is, of course, a saving. The gym is a modest two station plan with lockers, showers and storage. Notice the team room lockers and outside toilets in the basement plan for inter-scholastic athletics and playground use.

You will observe the two-room plans for art, shop, home economics and special classes for the retarded, meeting state recommendations. The music suite provides for both vocal and instrumental instruction. The five science rooms, with storage, are larger than the regular classrooms (896 sq. ft.) and emphasize this important subject at all three grade levels.

The library, guidance offices and health suite, along with the conference room and students' activity room provide the special attention to individual needs constantly emphasized in education today.

The administration offices are centrally located for pupil assistance and availability to the public. Book storage for texts is provided. The conference room makes possible small group meetings and P-TA conferences. Teachers have a well-located and comfortable teachers' room.

Second Floor Plan
Ample storage is provided for the gym, cafeteria and janitors' use. Toilets are well located. Notice the public phone. Small dressing-rooms are situated off the auditorium since dramatic activity should be a vital part of a good school's curriculum.

The plans shown in the rendering indicate the modern functional lines of this new school. The second floor lends itself to the general structural symmetry, while the basement takes full advantage of the site contour to provide a basement area, as you would in your own split-level home, at very little cost, but so very useful. Men, have you noticed the outside storage?

The tide of success will not continue to pass you by if you earn extra money using the Freeman classified ads.

CP Committee Will Meet on April 18

The executive committee of United Cerebral Palsy of Ulster County, Inc., will meet Thursday, April 18 at 7:45 p. m. at the City Laboratory.

The board of directors will hold a meeting at 8:30 p. m. Plans will be discussed for the cerebral palsy finance campaign which will be held during May.

ILWU to Seek Two
Wage Hikes This Year

San Francisco, April 10 (AP)—Dock workers of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union plan to ask wage increases of 7 cents an hour on June 15 and another 10 cents an hour Oct. 1.

These negotiating goals, along with increases in the scale of skilled labor differentials and better welfare provisions, were set yesterday by the ILWU's caucus committee.

The present basic wage is $2.45 an hour. The ILWU contract with the Pacific Maritime Assn., covering about 17,000 dock workers on the Pacific coast, provides that demands be referred to arbitration unless settled before June 15.

Bad Break Sets Bidder

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

If South's play had been as strong as his bidding he would have made his ambitious slam contract. Let's see how South went wrong.

He won the opening diamond lead with the ace, drew three rounds of trumps and led a spade to dummy's jack. When that card held South thought he was home. He returned to his hand with the ace of clubs and led a second spade. Dummy's queen held that trick but when East was so unkind as to show out South had to go down one trick.

The way South played the hand it was correct not to take the club finesse. He would not have needed it had spades broken three-two.

The correct play was to find out about the spades before it became necessary to lead a club. South should have done this by taking the spade finesse at trick two. Then he could have played the three rounds of trumps and taken the second spade finesse. This would have shown the bad break in spades and South would see that he would need the club finesse also. He would have gritted his teeth and taken it.

After that worked he would lead a spade to dummy's ace and trump a fourth spade with his last trump. The ace of clubs would be played and a club ruffed. Dummy's fifth spade would produce the twelfth trick and the slam would be home.

Acting as Diplomat in London, England, Is No Chore for Young Kate Roosevelt

London, April 10 (AP) — The reserved and frosty representative of the queen who calls at the U. S. Embassy is apt to be met by a lovely young girl who says:

"Hi; I'm Kate."

From that point on British-American relations are on the upgrade, for the man hardly exists who wouldn't like Kate Roosevelt.

Miss Roosevelt is Ambassador John Hay Whitney's stepdaughter. She is 21, brown haired, and wears blue jeans three or four days a week. Recently she has been serving as Embassy hostess while her mother, the former Betsey Cushing of Boston, recovered from an operation.

Becoming Favorite

She is sure of herself in greeting either a diplomat or the dustman, and she's fast becoming one of London's favorite people.

Whitney is "Daddy" to her and Franklin D. Roosevelt is remembered as "Granddaddy." Her father is James Roosevelt, Mrs. Whitney's first husband.

"I've been acting as daddy's hostess for several dinners," she says, "but he is getting ready to fire me. Mother is getting better rapidly."

The Whitneys took Kate along recently for luncheon at Clarence House with Queen Mother Elizabeth and Princess Margaret. She hasn't met the Queen and Prince Philip yet but "hopes to."

When she calls herself Kate, or Katie, she gives the English a pleasant shock.

Most English people are congenitally unable to be so informal themselves, but they like to see it when it is well done.

"It has gotten me a few odd looks," she says, but every word written about her in London newspapers had been complimentary.

"I'm afraid sometimes I may be too informal for these people. They are always asking you 'how do you like London?'"

"I tell them, of course I like London and that I'm going to stay over here with mother and daddy for at least six months."

"But, I like Thomasville, Ga., better."

"That is my favorite place. The shooting (bird) is wonderful. I like the weather and a lot of the people down there."

The Whitneys have a large plantation at Thomasville.

Uses Diplomacy

Kate was asked if telling the English that she likes Thomasville better than London was the kind of diplomacy taught by Ambassador Whitney.

"Daddy hasn't given me any special lessons in diplomacy," she says.

But she shows the diplomatic touch when asked how she likes the enormous house in Regents Park which was built in the 30s by Barbara Hutton and is now used as the residence of U. S. ambassadors.

"I like the gardens," says Kate who has been conditioned to sizable establishments by the White House and the Whitney place on Long Island.

Likes TV Work

She plans to take courses in English literature and English history in part time study at the University of London. She went to Sara Lawrence College in Bronxville, N. Y.

"I've been studying nearly all my life, and it is hard to stop," she says.

"I don't want to sound melodramatic but I really want to do something with myself. I like television work and I'm a real photographic bug."

"But I don't know that either would lead to anything when I go home."

She has "no particular boy friend."

Elderly Folks at Home for Aged Stay Young in Spirit Through Active Life

The shouts of children at play made a cheerful background sound as the five elderly women sat working on a puzzle on the bright sun porch.

The women wrinkled their brows in concentration and chattered to one another as they tried piece after piece of the puzzle. Their gaily printed gresses seemed to echo the light-hearted spirit of the room.

This group was part of the 35 guests who live at the non-denominational Home for the Aged at 80 Washington avenue.

Recently, one four-year-old boy who came to visit asked in a puzzled voice, "Why are there so many old people here?"

The average age of the guests is 89, but in spirit most are young and spry, still actively interested in all that goes on around them.

Guests Are Active

They go for walks around Kingston, sew, read books in the comfortably furnished library and often watch television programs in the evenings. Many correspond regularly with friends and relatives and there is a bulletin board that keeps them posted on all activities in the Home.

"Their favorite pastime, though, is gossiping," Burton S. Tandy, superintendent, said laughingly. "They love to talk about the weather, the Home and their health."

Both men and women live at the Home, though the women are usually in the majority. Each guest has her own room which she may decorate as she pleases. Most have rugs, brightly-colored drapes, and bed spreads and pictures of relatives and children displayed on the dresser tops.

Care for Own Rooms

These elderly people keep busy by caring for their own rooms and clothing. Some pare apples for the cook or help remove the dishes after meals. Each day, three take turns acting as hosts for the Home and greet all visitors at the door.

Often, groups from Kingston entertain with song and dance programs. Visitors are always welcomed eagerly by the guests.

The oldest guest is Mrs. Lucinda Krum, 96, who has been living at the Home for 13 years. Mrs. Krum still cares for her room and clothing.

She apologized because her bed was unmade.

"I've just been napping," she explained.

Mr. Tandy and his wife, Sally, have been superintendents of the Home for four years. Before that, Mr. Tandy was director of the Young Men's Christian Association in Kingston. The couple have been living in Kingston since 1942.

"There's a great demand for homes such as this," Mr. Tandy said. People are living longer and their children don't have large enough homes to accommodate them," he explained.

He added that fewer couples live in old age homes now because many are able to get along on combined social security payments.

The Home was founded in 1898 on Green street by a group of citizens aware of the problems of old age. It has been at the Washington avenue address since 1929.

The Home is limited to Ulster county residents, each of whom pays $750 on entering and may live there as long as he chooses. This sum is, of course, barely enough to cover even the first few months' expenses.

The Home is supported chiefly by legacies and proceeds from the Donation Day and Fair held each October.

Nurses Alumnae Schedule Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of Kingston Hospital Nurses Alumnae Association will be held Tuesday, April 16 at 8 p. m. in the Nurses' Home.

Mrs. Betty Sanford of Port Ewen will be the commentator. Refreshments will be served.

Birthday Observed By Local Residents

Attending were the Mmes. Gladys Hornbeck, Antoinette Brocco, Theresa Parker, Frances Clausi, Margaret Cosgrove, Mary DeCicco.

Onteora Principal Charges Errors, Omissions in Ad

The following statement was issued this date by John H. Moehle, supervising principal, Onteora Central School, in connection with the paid advertisement which appeared last week in the Kingston Daily Freeman and Woodstock Press.

Mr. Moehle stated, "due to the comparisons of our academic program with that of Kingston High School, which appeared in both papers last week, I feel duty bound to correct some errors and to focus attention on some omissions in this ad."

"(1) In the field of English, Onteora offers 5 classes in English 12 instead of the 3 classes listed in the advertisement. These courses include American and English Literature, Journalism and creative writing.

"(2) Our high school English and social studies classes are grouped into regents and school level groupings. This is the same system in use in Kingston High School.

"(3) In the area of home-making, we offer Homemaking V and VIII in addition to the 3 courses listed.

"(4) We are offering at the present time an advance general math (shop math) in the field of mathematics.

"(5) Our business department offers salesmanship, business management and bookkeeping in alternate years. It is true that during the present school year, these courses are not being offered. However, they were offered during the school year 1955-56 and will be offered again next year. It was entirely omitted in the advertisement that classes in Office Practice I and II are being offered at the present time.

"(6) In the field of art, architectural drawing, painting and advanced graphic art have been offered at Onteora each year in addition to the courses in basic art, design, graphic arts and art workshop which were listed in the advertisement.

"(7) We have, at the present time, a high school chorus of 60 members. One-half unit of high school credit is given each year. General Music III is being offered at the present time and not Music V as listed in the advertisement.

"I make this simple, honest statement to correct the record."

Parents Association Schedules Meeting

Parents Association of School 4 will meet Thursday, 8 p. m. in the school.

Guest speaker will be Earl Soper, superintendent of schools, and members of the board of education.

They will discuss plans for the new proposed high school. Parents of School 3 are also invited to attend.

New Information System May Give Firms Big Assist

Cambridge, Mass., April 10 (AP)—How would you like to drive an automobile blindfolded — guided only by a companion looking out the rear window at where you'd be?

Managing an industry is like that now, a professor of industrial management said Tuesday, but he predicted that a big "break-through" may soon give management information - tools to change all that.

Dr. Jay W. Forrester, former head of the Digital Computer Division of the huge Lincoln Laboratory in working out problems in continental defense, was a speaker at the fifth anniversary convocation of the School of Industrial Management at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Now professor of industrial management at MIT, he predicted that information flow may be even more important than money flow in determining the behavior of our industrial organizations and economic systems.

"One might be partially correct to say that information controls what will happen; money is an evidence of what has happened."

Prof. Forrester said, "management education is, I believe, on the verge of a major breakthrough in developing new ways to understand the interaction between the flows of information, materials, manpower and money."

He suggested that consumer demand is often blamed erroneously for production changes that actually are caused by information delays and ordering policies within the company.

Rapid coordination and processing of information, he said, may change the situation in which management — like the blindfolded auto driver — can't see the road ahead. It will provide a "feedback system" such as automobile drivers used for staying on the road: "Steering wheel-to-auto-to-street-to-eye-to-hand" forming what he called a "control loop."

He predicted "industrial dynamics" as a principal field of research at MIT, using great computers to simulate industrial operations — "formulating the structure of industrial systems."

In about five years, he predicted a transition from research to actual use of these methods "as a practical tool for company management."

Speaking in a similar vein,

Dean E. P. Brooks of the MIT School of Industrial Management, said MIT foresees the future executive needing to know more and more about science and technology and from time to time returning to an industrial "war college," to keep abreast of new techniques.

Little Leaguers Meet Tomorrow

Chicago, April 10 (AP)—Approximately 300 delegates representing the 48 states, Canada, Panama and Mexico, will attend the second annual National Congress of Little League Baseball tomorrow through Saturday.

The convention will review regulations and policies of the program which has boomed from 15 leagues in 1947 to more than 4,000 last year.

Hurley LL Plans Meeting Thursday

Another in a series of Town of Hurley Little League meetings is scheduled at 8 p. m. at the Hurley school hall.

League president, Steve Nekos, urges all league officials, managers and coaches and players' parents to attend.

National Loop's Personal Duels Promise to Flavor the Race

Baseball experts are completely unified in their selections for the American League championship. They simply echo each other's superlatives in praise of the New York Yankees.

They also will not bicker when predicting the American League's individual batting star...or haven't you heard about Mickey Mantle?

National League officials, meantime, are leaning back in their plush chairs and smiling. They envision a tense, prosperous battle for their pennant between the Brooklyn Dodgers, Milwaukee Braves and Cincinnati Redlegs.

They also foresee a close race for personal honors.

Milwaukee's Henry Aaron and Joe Adcock, Brooklyn's Duke Snider, Cincinnati's entire team of sluggers, New York's Willie Mays, St. Louis' Stan Musial, Chicago's Ernie Banks and Philadelphia's Richie Ashburn will all swing away for recognition next week.

Kingston baseball coach Al Gruner takes a long look at candidates for his club.

Recent Rain and Snow Force Team Indoors

Kingston High School's baseball coach, Al Gruner, deserves a place on top of the list when you mention persons with a legitimate gripe against the weather.

Coach Gruner assembled his ballclub for their first workout last Wednesday, the earliest practice session in Kingston High's history, but the recent poor weather has all but nullified any advantage he may have reaped from the quick start.

"We had a real fine break," Gruner said last night, "but we're back in the gym now due to the bad weather."

"We had a few days to get an early start and got into pretty good condition. We built to a peak and now we just about have to start all over again," he continued.

"The field is in bad shape and we've had to skip scrimmages and close infield drills," Gruner said.

"I'd rather just limit my team to batting practice than take a chance on someone getting hurt in hard workouts," he said.

The coach said he is anxious to start practicing on the Stadium diamond. At present, the Kingston nine has been confined to playing in their gymnasium and on the sandlot field, a few blocks from the school.

"The weather looks a lot more promising though," he noted with a bit of hopeful optimism.

Coach Gruner has six men returning from last season's team which tied for second place in the DUSO League.

The lettermen are Renni Giannuzzi, southpaw pitcher; Frank Salmons, catcher; Bill Cragan, third-baseman; Bill Chase, outfielder and Don Kruger, second-baseman.

"I have little doubt that these men will be in my starting lineup," said Gruner, "but I like to start everyone with an equal opportunity so I can't definitely say."

The coach has been working with twenty-eight candidates for the Kingston varsity.

He would not reveal which of the twenty-two new prospects have displayed any strong baseball talents.

"We've had only batting practice," he said, "therefore I wouldn't venture a guess as to who will be good."

"I won't be able to say anything along that line until after we've had a real test, like a

Sports Page Has New Editor Today

The sports pages have been edited today by Steve Gelman of Columbia University's Graduate School of Journalism.

Gelman, 23-years-old and a life-long resident of Brooklyn, New York, graduated Brooklyn College before entering Columbia.

He formerly reported sports for the Associated Press and Brooklyn Eagle and now works in the sports department of the Long Island Daily Press.

Coach Gruner said, however, that he hopes pitching will be his club's forte.

"We have many pitchers out and they all look like fairly strong throwers," he commented.

In addition to Giannuzzi, left-handed hurlers, Joe Beaver, Bob Beadle and Lee Kingberg and righties, Bob Short and Don Kruger have taken mound stints during Kingston High's practice sessions.

Kingston opens its season, April 29, with a non-league encounter against Saugerties High School.

The club starts its DUSO competition, May 2.

Coach Gruner said the league's defending champion, Poughkeepsie High, should have a potent pitching staff. He also said that Newburgh High will have a veteran team since their 1956 squad was composed mostly of sophomores.

"I don't really know what the other teams have," Gruner added.

"We don't have an opportunity to scout baseball as in other sports," he explained, "but we follow newspaper accounts of our opponents games in the event they play before we meet them."

Marks' Last-Second Basket Gives Blacktop Playoff Win

Ron Marks swished a jump shot last night with two seconds remaining in the game to give Kingston Blacktop a 70-68 win over Boulevard Gulf in a Y. M. C. A. "B" championship playoff.

Last night's contest was the opener of a best two-out-of-three series between the clubs. The next game will be played at the Y. M. C. A. tonight.

Boulevard led throughout most of the encounter. The Gulf team held a 39-28 margin at halftime and increased it to 55-49 toward the end of the final period.

Blacktop staged a late rally and tied the score on Rich Nagele's two free throws with four seconds remaining.

Blacktop's Butch Tomaseski was high scorer with 23 points. Team-mate Dick Richards hit 17. Ray Lucas led Gulf with 22 and Willy Godwin posted 16 for the losers.

Pick Barnes For DeBruce Boys Camp

Gary Barnes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry (Sonny) Barnes of 64 Emerick street, was designated by Lake Katrine Rod and Gun Club last night as its representative to the DeBruce Boys conservation camp.

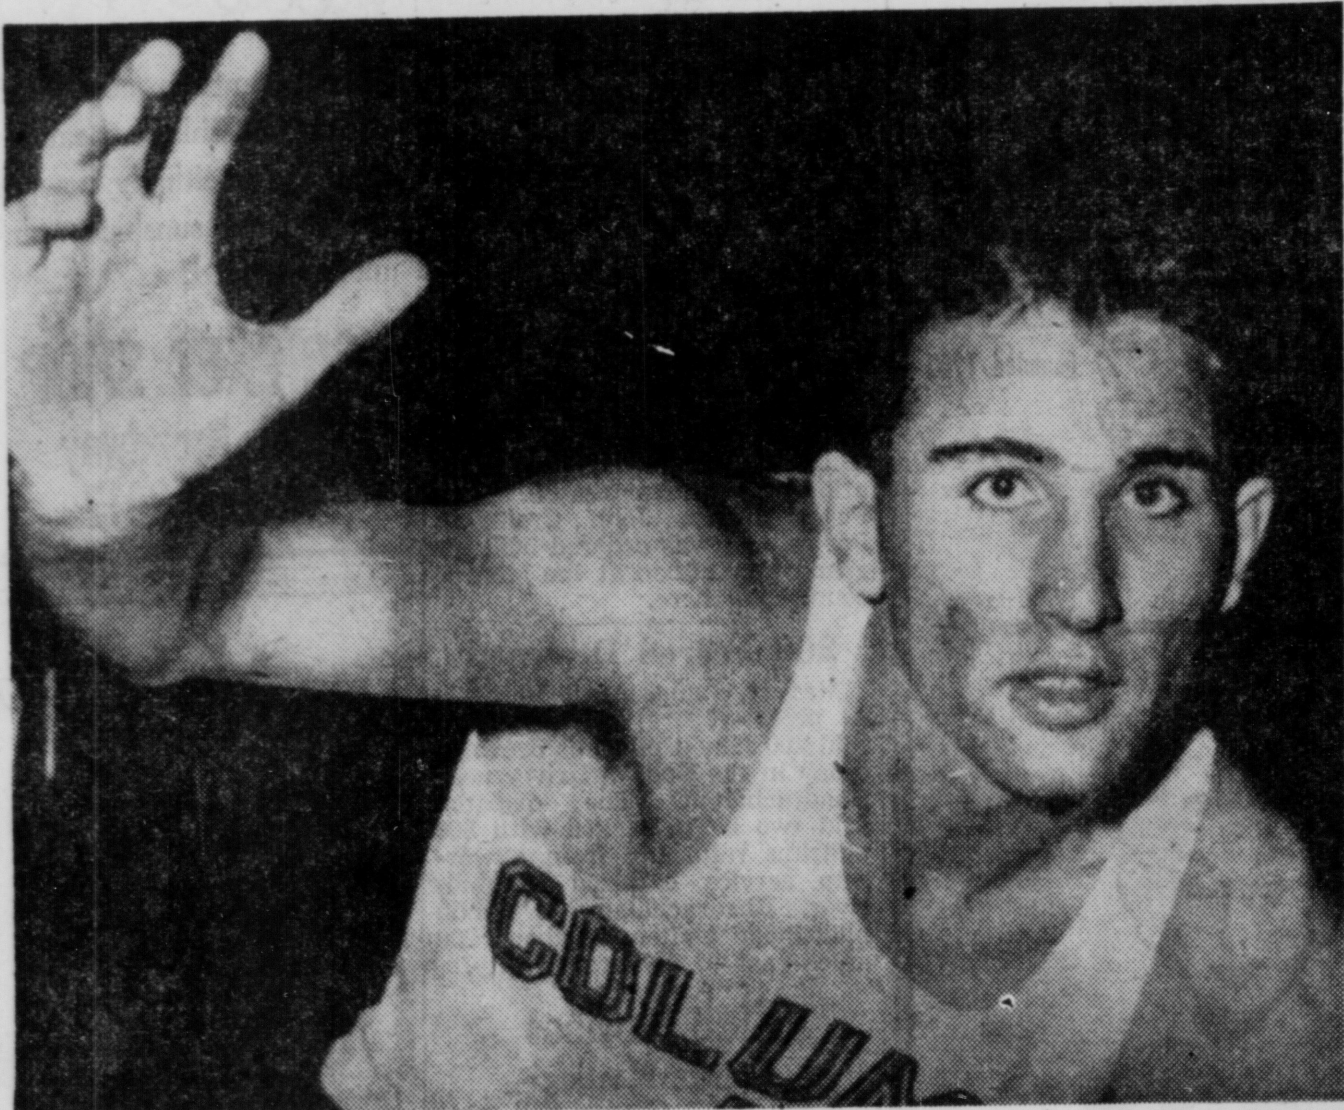

William Hornbeck, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hornbeck of 57 Elmendorf street, was named alternate.

Rene Gutierrez

Rene Valdes, who won 22 games for Portland, Ore., in the Pacific Coast League in 1956, is known as Rene Gutierrez in his native Cuba.

Jim Piersall of the Boston Red Sox and Nellie Fox of the Chicago White Sox played in all their teams' American League games in 1956.

Local Tournament Star

Ted Dwyer, who starred for Pine Plains in the recent Kingston Basketball Tournament, was one of the outstanding ballplayers in the New York city area this season.

Dwyer teamed with All-American Chet Forte to give Columbia University what most hoop experts considered the best backcourt duo in the east.

Ted graduates Columbia in June. He is 20-years old and married. He stands six-foot-one and weighs 165 pounds. Dwyer hails from Plymouth, Pa., and played with the Plymouth High School team before entering Columbia.

Major Lineups Open In NBA As Season Nears

(By The Associated Press)

Who's going to play second base for Brooklyn? Third base for the Boston Red Sox and Cleveland Indians? First base for Detroit? Catch for the Chicago Cubs?

Probably never have so many Major League clubs closed in on baseball's opening day with as many vacancies still to be filled. At least 10 managers will have to come up with decisions before the wraps are taken off the 1957 campaign next week.

Junior Gilliam, Brooklyn's regular second baseman last season, is a cinch to be in the opening day lineup. But he may start at third base with Charley Neal at second and Gino Cimoli in left field.

Frank Malzone and Ted Lepcio are in a dogfight for the Red Sox' third base job. Bobby Avila and Billy Harrell are in the running for the same post with the Indians. Ray Boone and Eddie Robinson are the contenders for first base with the Tigers.

The regular catching spot with the Cubs is a tossup among Cal Neuman, Charley Silvera and Ray Katt. White Sox manager Al Lopez is undecided about Jim Rivera and Walt Dropo for first base. There's no sure thing at third base for the New York Giants with Daryl Spencer, Ossie Virgil and Foster Castleman all competing.

Neal, in his second season with the Dodgers, and Neuman, the No. 1 choice on last fall's draft list, did themselves the most good in yesterday's exhibition games.

Neal slapped a two-run double off Corkey Valentine with one out in the ninth inning to give the Dodgers a 5-4 victory over the Milwaukee Braves. Brooklyn went into the final frame trailing 4-1 when Gilliam and Pee Wee Reese each walked. Cimoli's single loaded the bases and brought in Valentine in relief of Carlton Willey. A sacrifice fly by Carl Furillo and Roy Campanella's single sent home two runs and another base on balls followed by Neal's two-bagger drove in the game-winners.

Neuman and righthanded pitcher Moe Drabowsky combined to lead the Cubs to an 8-3 triumph over Baltimore. Neuman knocked in four runs with a home run and two doubles. Drabowsky went the distance and permitted only five singles. The game was called after eight innings to allow the clubs to catch a train.

The New York Giants evened their series against Cleveland after 16 games by producing a 4-2 triumph behind the combined five-hit hurling of Allan Worthington and Joe Margoneri. Indian's relief ace Ray Narleski made his first appearance since breaking a finger four weeks ago and held the Giants hitless over the last two innings.

Five Redleg Homers
The Cincinnati Redlegs powered five home runs to down the Washington Senators 9-7.

Canadiens Get Lead In Hockey Finals

Montreal, April 10 (AP)—Montreal's Flying Frenchmen, defending Stanley Cup champions, today were prohibitive favorites to capture their ninth trophy after all but crushing the Cinderella hope of the underdog Boston Bruins.

A Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion pass, and a deceptive piece of stick work by Jean Beliveau accounted for the only goal last night as the Canadiens defeated the Bruins, 1-0, to take a substantial 2-0 lead in the best-of-7 final National Hockey League Playoff series.

The scene shifts to Boston Thursday for the third game with the Bruins hoping they will rebound on home ice. The fourth game also will be played in Boston Sunday.

Boston Coach Milt Schmidt stated the plight of his Bruins simply. "We lost because we couldn't get a goal," he said.

It was Montreal goalie Jacques Plante who accomplished the feat of shutting out the Bruins for the first time since Chicago managed it Oct. 30, 1956.

Plante turned aside 24 shots and Coach Toe Blake was loud in praise of his netminder, especially

Round-by-Round Scoring for TV Bout Tonight

Miami, Fla., April 10 (AP)—Television viewers across the country may be able to keep an official round-by-round tab tonight on progress of the Davey Moore-Gil Cadilli featherweight bout in Miami's Biscayne Arena. The seventh-ranked Cadilli is a 9-5 favorite.

The Miami Boxing Commission said it would make round-by-round scores available to broadcasters if the International Boxing Club didn't object. IBC director Marry Markson in New York said the matter was up to the Miami board. Use of the scores, if supplied, would be optional with the broadcasters and sponsors.

Wally Post had two of the Redlegs' circuits with Ted Kluszewski, Gus Bell and Jerry Lynch getting one apiece Eddie Yost homered for the Senators.

In other games, Jim Davis walked across the winning run in the last of the ninth as the Chicago White Sox edged the St. Louis Cardinals 6-5; Andy Carey's two-run homer in the eighth carried the world champion New York Yankees to a 5-4 victory over Jacksonville of the Sally League and Little Rock of the Southern Assn. shoved home four runs in the fifth inning to nip the Kansas City A's 5-4.

Pre-season cutdowns continued with the Giants sending infielders Hank Thompson and Ed Bressoud and pitchers Jim Constable and Fernando Rodriguez to Minneapolis. Thompson was sold outright with the others going on option. Kansas City sold pitcher Lou Kretlow to Seattle and optioned pitcher Dave Newkirk to Shreveport and Carl Duser, another hurler, to Little Rock.

ally on a save against Cal Gardner in the third period that prevented the Bruins from tying the score.

"Gardner faked to the outside about 15 feet out," said Plante. "I didn't move, then he shot from about four feet out. I got the puck with the back of my glove."

Babe Ruth League Slates "Booster Button Day"

The newly-organized Babe Ruth baseball league has set Friday, April 12, as its "Booster Button Day."

Babe Ruth players in uniform will be stationed at various vantage points in the city during the day and will be in the uptown shopping district Friday night to solicit donations.

The Booster Button Day is held in conjunction with National Baseball Week which culminates with an NBC TV spectacular Saturday night. The 40 & 8 locomotive will take part in the local drive.

President James Gilpatrick of the Babe Ruth League says all contributions will be gratefully accepted.

Celts Up In NBA Playoff

Boston, April 10 (AP)—The comeback Boston Celtics—leading the National Basketball Assn. finals at last—agree with St. Louis coach Alex Hannum that rebounds will decide the championship.

The teams are headed west for what could be the concluding game tomorrow night after Boston downed the Hawks 124-109 last night to take a 3-2 edge in the best-of-seven series.

After twice coming from behind to deadlock the competition, the favored Celtics finally moved ahead.

Several days earlier Hannum had said "rebounding will be the deciding factor in the series."

As if to prove the point, Boston pulled the ball off the boards 73 times to 60 for St. Louis last night as a major contribution to the outcome.

St. Louis ace Bob Pettit got only one rebound in the second half after hauling in 14 before intermission.

Meanwhile, Boston rookie center sensation Bill Russell grabbed 14 of his 23 in the second half to help the Celtics build up a 34-287 advantage over the hustling Hawks in the first five games.

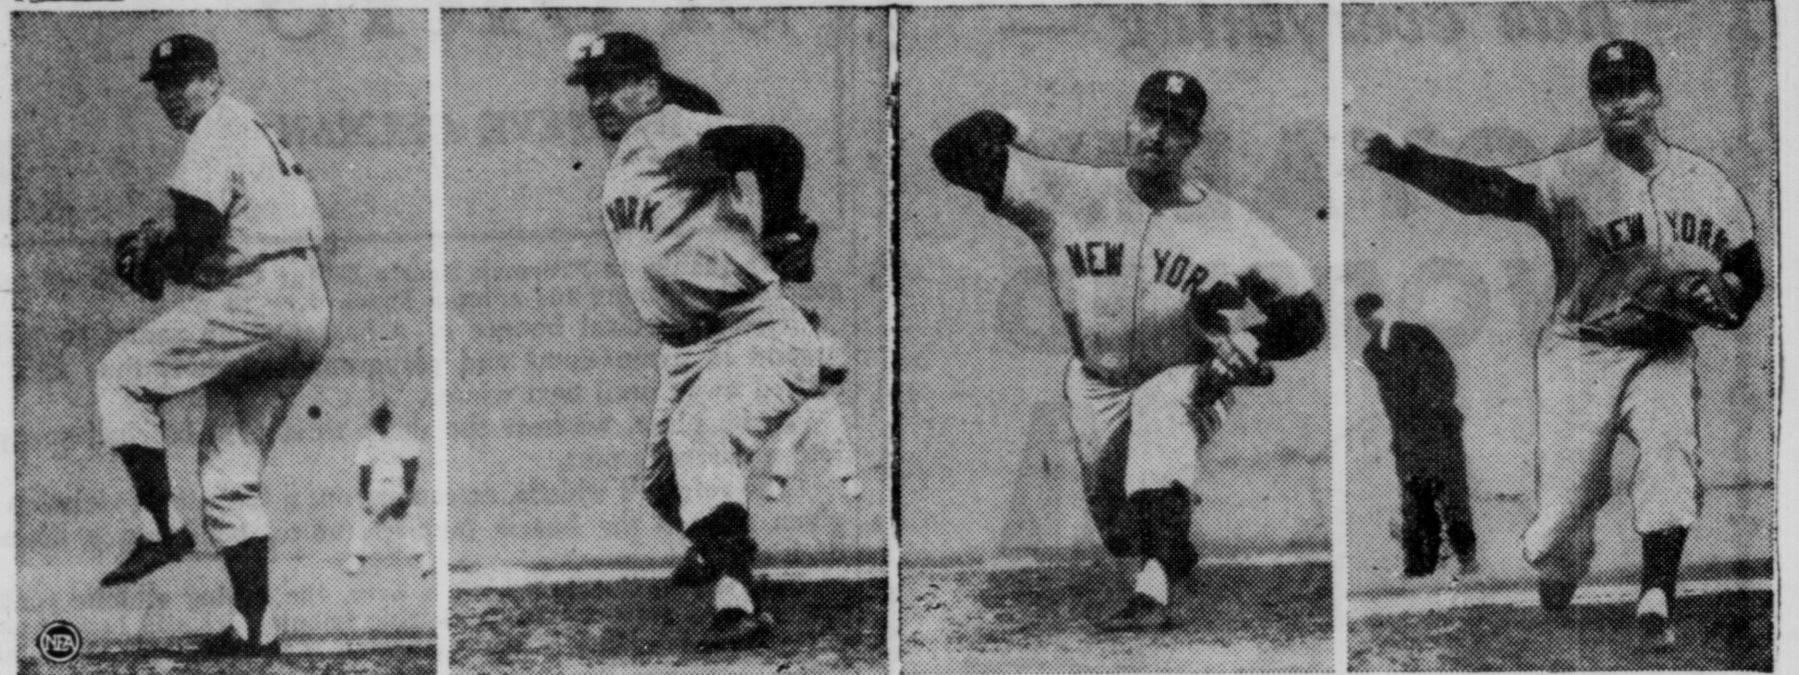

Even if the game in St. Louis wraps up the title, Russell has a good chance to smash the play-off record of 207 rebounds established by George Mikan of Minneapolis in 1952. He needs 12 to tie it and 19 to break it.

Mikan got his in 12 games for a 17.3 average. Russell has 189 rebounds in eight playoff contests for a 23.7 mark.

Bill Sharman scored 32 points, rookie Tom Heinsohn 23 and Russell 14 as team strength buried the Hawks whose Pettit hit on 13 of 21 field goal tries and wound up with 33 points.

South Dakota ranked third among states of the Union in durum wheat production during 1955.

'Bullet' Bob's New Form

NO WINDUP—As Bob Turley learned in the World Series, the pitcher doesn't need an elaborate windup if he has something on the ball. So, in the New York Yankees' exhibition games, the big right-hander simply lifts his leg, pulls back and fires.

SPORTS

By STEVE GELMAN

(My thanks to Freeman Sports Editor Charles J. Tiano for so generously turning his column space over to me.)

The methodical bounce of a basketball, a sound so vividly present in gymnasiums and playgrounds a short time ago, has drifted away until next winter.

In its place, we hear the sharp thud of a baseball snapping into a catcher's mitt.

The referee's whistle, screaming out a basketball violation has given way to the hoarse umpire's voice, bellowing a diamond decision.

The winter sports season is over, the Spring athletic contests are about to start . . . but glowing tributes are still being awarded to Kingston High School's Autumn representative—the football team.

The powerful Kingston eleven received national recognition last week when "Scholastic Coach" selected it as a 1956 state champion. "Scholastic Coach" is a magazine circulated throughout the entire country.

Willard Burke, coach of the Kingston club, beamed as he explained the publication's selection process.

He said "Scholastic Coach" chose its champions after surveying all the high school coaches in the nation.

Coach Burke said that a Kingston team had never before gained recognition in a national publication.

"A few years ago, two of our boys were picked for the magazine's All-American squad," he explained, "but the team wasn't declared as champion."

The men selected at that time were Gene Massa, a fullback, and Fred Jackson, an end. Both gridgers were invited to participate in a high school all-star game in Tennessee, but declined because of working commitments.

Coach Burke reviewed his club's accomplishments. He said Kingston outscored its opponents, 220-57, while compiling an undefeated eight-game record last season.

The story that ran along with "Scholastic Coach's" champion roster said that high school eleven throughout the country relied more on running attacks than on passing offenses last year.

Coach Burke was all smiles when he commented on the magazine's statistics.

"We were very often criticized for not passing," he said, "but it's hard to develop a good passing attack."

"Everybody used a ground offense last season," he continued, "high schools, colleges and even the pros."

"Why sometimes, four out of five plays in the pros were running," he added.

As Coach Burke smiled in recollection of last year's accomplishments, out came the long-range crystal ball.

We asked the coach to tell us of next season's prospects.

"Just fair, never can tell," he mused, "Never know what the opposition's got."

The freshmen lost only one game last year," he said "They comprised the best physically developed squad ever and look as though they'll be a big help."

"The Junior Varsity will be a big help also. A lot of our replacements will come from the J.V.," he continued.

The coach said only three starters from last year's championship eleven would return.

Hobart Armstrong, All-league halfback, Marv Engle, All-League end and Marvin Shaub, All-League guard, will be back.

From this corner, it looks like an excellent nucleus to build a club around.

And after hearing Coach Burke praise his J.V. and frosh prospects, we thought he was emulating Frank Leahy's Notre Dame pessimism by not predicting another banner season for his team.

O'Brien Shocked Ketchel for 7, Wound Up With Head in Box

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fourth in a series of dispatches on the memorable fights seen by Nat Fleischer, boxing's historian and editor of the famed Ring Magazine and Record Book.)

By NAT FLEISCHER

Written for NEA Service

New York — (NEA) — Philadelphia Jack O'Brien's seconds were excited as the 10th round started. They scrambled out of the ring and left the sawdust box—which served as a spittoon in those days—in his corner.

This was on a March night in 1939 and O'Brien was fighting Stanley Ketchel, the middleweight champion, at Fiss, Doerr and Carroll's horse market on 24th Street near Lexington Avenue in New York.

For seven rounds, Philadelphia Jack had been astounding. I had gone to the fight expecting O'Brien to be defeated easily, for he had 14 years of ring activity behind him and at 32 didn't seem a match for his young, relentless punching opponent. But O'Brien surprised me. Until the eighth round, Philadelphia Jack had been chopping up Stanley's face with powerful jabs. Ketchel's face was a blanket of red.

Nat Fleischer

BUT THE EIGHTH and ninth had seen Ketchel come on. He cut and staggered O'Brien in the eighth. In the ninth, Ketchel plunged in and drove a terrific belt to O'Brien's wind. Jack went against the ropes and collapsed. O'Brien sneered through, but he regained his feet and fell into a clinch to last out the round.

That sawdust box remained in the ring throughout the 10th round as Ketchel, still far behind, made a dramatic bid to pull the fight out with a knockout. The Michigan Assassin rattled every bone in O'Brien's body in the last round. Every time he lashed out, O'Brien's blood was splattered around ringside.

In the final minute, Ketchel shifted to the body and O'Brien toppled from a powerful right to the mid-section. Referee Tim Hurst moved in to count, but O'Brien was already on his feet.

TWELVE SECONDS were left. Unless Ketchel could score a knockout he would lose the newspaper decision—the only verdict handed out in these times. Ketchel leaped at O'Brien. He ripped away with both hands. But the clock moved . . . eleven . . . ten . . . nine—too late now, we all figured.

There were eight seconds to go when Ketchel lifted O'Brien off his feet with a left hook to jaw. O'Brien toppled backwards—and his head landed in the sawdust box.

O'Brien was inert as Referee Hurst counted to four—and then the bell sounded. O'Brien had to be lifted onto his stool.

The consensus among sports-writers at ringside was that O'Brien was the winner by a shade. That started a riot. How, people asked, could a man be called winner when he was knocked out? When he finished the fight with his head in a box?

Ketchel's punch made the argument. But there would have been none if it hadn't been for O'Brien's boxing. Ketchel never had seen a man use footwork, feints and a jab such as O'Brien did for the first seven rounds. For seven rounds, Ketchel had been out-boxed.

I came away from that fight talking of O'Brien's cunning and nerve. And I still talk about it today. It was a fight I cannot forget.

NEXT: Dempsey out of the ring.

Take Motor

Club Rally

John Paes and Roger Smith teamed up driver and navigator to win the annual Regularity Rallye sponsored by the Shongum Mountain Motor Club of Ellenville.

Paes and Smith led the 12-car field including entries from the Sports Car Club of American unit of New Jersey, with a low of 142 points.

Fred Bramhall and Don Weisman of Ellenville finished second with 144 points. Wayne Connor and Carl Steers of Kerhonkson were third with 163 points.

Eleven of the twelve starters completed the gruelling 40.4-mile course and one was disqualified for exceeding the designated speed limit of 40 miles per hour set by officials for Class 3 roads.

Award 'Booby Prize'

Martin Lippe and Joseph Kimble of the Sports Car Club of America were awarded a "booby prize" for racking up the incredible total of 10,384 points. In the scoring system, points are charged against teams for driving faults.

Percy Krom of Ellenville was Rallye Master, assisted by Mrs. Percy Krom, Fred Weeks and Carl Connor as point observers.

Asakai May Be Jap Envoy to U. S.

Tokyo, April 10 (AP)—Career diplomat Koichiro Asakai is being prominently mentioned as Japan's next ambassador to the United States.

The newspapers Asahi and Yomiuri reported Asakai, present ambassador to the Philippines, has been tentatively selected to succeed Ambassador Masayuki Tani. Tani on April 14 is giving up the Washington post he has held for 13 months.

Asakai, 51, joined the foreign ministry staff in 1929 after graduating from Tokyo University of Commerce. He is a former minister to Britain.

Lexington, a historic name, is also the name of communities in Kentucky, Massachusetts, Missouri, North Carolina and West Virginia. The Massachusetts Lexington is where the first battle of the Revolution took place on April 19, 1775.

Trend Developing For Abolition of Death Penalty

Chicago, April 10 —The death penalty — applied through the ages as punishment and as a crime deterrent—is headed in the direction of extinction.

A survey of current studies showed today that capital punishment is dwindling through disuse in the United States.

A worldwide trend has developed for its abolition.

Big Drop Noted

The studies showed: The number of persons in the United States condemned to "walk the last mile" to the electric chair, gas chamber or the hangman's noose has dropped rather steadily from 199 to 1935 to 76 in 1955.

The FBI's uniform crime reports show that the decline in murders during the same period has been relatively small—from 7.1 per 100,000 population in 1933 to between 4.9 urban and 5 rural in 1955.

A California subcommittee studying the problem of capital punishment concluded that the decline in the ratio of executions to murders "may be indicative of the increasing indisposition of courts and juries to inflict the death penalty."

Out in Six States

Six of the United States—Michigan, Rhode Island, Wisconsin, Maine, Minnesota and North Dakota—and 38 foreign countries have abolished the death penalty. The foreign countries include all the western democracies except France. Capital punishment also has been abolished in the Soviet Union, except for political crimes.

Several states in this country have restored capital punishment after abolishing it temporarily.

The death penalty provision for murder and other major crimes is designed to punish the guilty and deter others from committing such crimes.

Objective Questioned

Does it accomplish its objective? This is a highly controversial question. Proponents of capital punishment say it does while opponents claim just as stoutly that it does not.

One of the most searching studies of the question was made by the British Royal Commission on Capital Punishment. The group made a statistical study of the deterrent theory in the United States and foreign and commonwealth countries from 1949-53. The commission made this finding:

Is Not Deterrent

"The general conclusion we have reached is that there is no clear cut evidence in any of the figures we have examined that the abolition of capital punishment has led to an increase in the homicide rate, or that its reintroduction has led to a fall."

Atty. Gen. Frank M. Harding of Maine, which has been without capital punishment since 1887, said "there has been no increase in capital crime" in his state.

Gov. Orville Freeman of Minnesota, which dropped the death penalty 46 years ago, said "I don't believe it (the penalty) was a major deterrent to crime."

Atty. Gen. Leslie R. Burgum of North Dakota said the penalty is no deterrent to crime because "the man about to kill someone doesn't stop to think about the penalty."

Fernis J. Fazzano, assistant attorney general of Rhode Island which dropped capital punishment in 1915, said, "there has been no increase in the number of murders since the abolishment."

Fox Is Relected By Olive Firemen

Company No. 1, Olive Bridge—Robert Usher, assistant chief engineer; Myron Rowe, captain; Alvin Avery, first lieutenant; Elmer Oldberg, second lieutenant.

Company No. 3, West Shokan—Marcel Maier, assistant chief engineer; Fred Keogan, captain; Charles Muller, first lieutenant; Alvin Barringer, second lieutenant.

Adopt Mutual Aid

Atonement Church Meetings, Program

Thank Offering
The United Lutheran Church Women of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Atonement in Saugerties will hold their quarterly thank offering meeting Thursday, April 11 at the church social room. The United Lutheran Church Women is the official women's auxiliary of the United Lutheran Church in America and all members make use of their daily thank offering banks, with the thought being a prayer a day and a gift a day for the work of the Church throughout the world. These thank offerings are a part of the national budget of more than $1,000,000.

All of the ladies organizations at the local church are part of the United Lutheran Church Women and they include the Missionary Circle, the Amicitia Circle and the Ladies' Aid Circle.
At the meeting, the Rev. Richard I Crossland, pastor, will discuss the home mission program of the Lutheran Church, and what advances have been made and what a task confronts the church. A filmstrip, "Building Together" will be shown in connection with the discussion.
There will be a social hour at the conclusion of the meeting.

To Welcome Members

The Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Atonement in Saugerties will welcome eight new members into the fellowship of the congregation Sunday, according to an announcement made today by the Rev. Mr. Crossland, pastor.
This will be the highlight of the special services to be held at 8 a. m. and 11 a. m. Sunday in observance of Palm Sunday. There will be special music by the three choirs of the church, with the Cherub Choir, under the direction of Mrs. Jean Crossland, singing, "Praise Him." The Atonement choir will sing, "Ride on, Ride on in Majesty" by Nevin and the Chapel choir will sing, "Jerusalem" by Parker. Donald S. Fellows, directs these two choirs.

In addition there will be the Sacrament of Holy Baptism at the 11 a. m. service with Grant Philip Myers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anley Myers, Jr. being baptized.
Pastor Crossland will speak on, "You Are There" and the distribution of Palms will take place at both services and also at Sunday church school.

Visitation Program
The Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Atonement in Saugerties is now beginning its year-round program of Evangelism with 64 people serving as lay-visitors for the congregation, according to Henry Brietenbach, chairman for evangelism at the local church.
"Although, right now all of the Lutheran Churches of the Hudson valley are now participating in the continent-wide Lutheran Evangelism Mission, our concern is in developing a long-range permanent program of Evangelism," Mr. Brietenbach said.

He pointed out that the program has really got several parts to it. First of all we are trying to visit all of the inactive members of the congregation to try to make them an integral part of the life of the congregation. Secondly, we visit the parents of children in the Church Schools or in other activities of the Church but who are not members, in order to invite them to become one with us, and finally, we will survey areas where there are new homes and new residents, to invite and win more people for Jesus Christ.
"Of course," he added, "our program does not end, with just visiting, then it is our task to welcome these people into the congregation, to integrate them into the life of the church. This might be the most difficult part, at times, but when one realizes the challenge, one can't help but arise and say, you can count on me."

Some visiting has already been done, with the first results being very gratifying, and now in April it will get down to the real effort with all teams out regularly doing plenty of door-bell ringing.

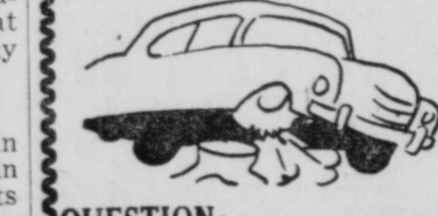

The entire group of lay-visitors will get together at the church Wednesday at 8:45 to exchange ideas and experiences and also to receive a short briefing on the task before them.

The 64 visitors, who will go out in teams of two are: Mr. and Mrs. Henry Breitenbach, chairman; Mr. and Mrs. John Gade, hospitality chairman; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Reinhardt, prayer chairman; Mr. and Mrs. Glenford Gentner Jr., lay-visits chairman; and Mr. and Mrs. George Hano, publicity chairman.

In addition to these visitors who serve as leaders, other visitors, include: Mr. and Mrs. Lars Risdal, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schumacher, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Rinde, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kiernan, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Legg, Mr. and Mrs. David H. Hildebrandt, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Gentner, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Olson, Mr. and Mrs. Fredrick Kukuk, Mr. and Mrs. James Calder, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Brannigan, Miss Florence Nieffer, Franklin P. Clum Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gaglianella, Mr. and Mrs. David E. Hildebrandt, Mrs. Rachel Hayes, John Bub, Mr. and Mrs. Anley Myers Jr., Mrs. Donald Fellows, Mrs. Beverly Dargan, Mr. and Mrs. Durwood Swart, John Burns, George Hildebrandt, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Rittie, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Davis, Mr. and Mrs.

Holstein Cows Set 3 Records

Three official production records by area registered Holstein cows were announced today by The Holstein-Friesian Association of America.

Armagh Sensation Fobes, owned by Joseph McAnlis of New Paltz—milked twice daily for 340 days, produced a total of 17,242 pounds of milk and 618 pounds of butterfat as a seven-year-old.

Fernbrook Fobes Flo, owned by Carl H. Swenson, Jr., Wappingers Falls—milked three times daily for 365 days, produced a total of 21,539 pounds of milk and 685 pounds of butterfat as a five-year-old.

Ellbank Sensation Polly, owned by the estate of Roy W. Wright, Pleasant Valley—milked twice daily for 353 days, produced a total of 13,950 pounds of milk and 529 pounds of butterfat as an eight-year-old.

Convicted of Contempt
Washington, April 10 (P)—Alden Whitman, a New York newspaperman convicted yesterday of contempt of Congress in refusing to name one-time Communist associates, will have to wait a while to learn his sentence. U. S. District Judge Edward M. Curran said he would not impose sentence until after the Supreme Court makes a decision in a related case—that of John T. Watkins, a Rock Island, Ill., labor leader. Whitman meanwhile remained free on bond.

Wins N. Mexico Seat
Albuquerque, N. M., April 10 (P)—Lt. Gov. Joseph M. Montoya, who at 41 has had more political experience than many men get in a lifetime, won New Mexico's second seat in the U. S. House of Representatives yesterday. Montoya, a Democrat, piled up a margin of some 7,000 votes over his Republican opponent, State Rep. Thomas Bolack of Farmington, in a startling heavy vote.

James Devaney, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Snell, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Holroyd, Mr. and Mrs. William Corin Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hauck.
In conclusion, Mr. Breitenbach said, "This week all of the 475 confirmed members of the congregation will be receiving prayer booklets, with the request, that they join with us in prayer for this great cause of Sharing Christ Today. We can try every technique—ringing every doorbell, but unless we turn to God for our power and inspiration, our effort will be just an empty and hollow victory."

Jazz Tours Helpful

Washington, April 10 (P)—Congress has been told the United States got good value out of government-subsidized tours of Dizzy Gillespie's jazz band through the Near East and Latin America. Transcripts of hearings by a House Appropriations Subcommittee last month, published today, contained a number of questions about Gillespie's pay—$2,150 a week—and the overall cost of the tours, $100,839 in the Near East and $40,500 in Latin America. But Donald B. Cook, chief of the State Department's Special Projects Division, told the subcommittee he thinks such undertakings offset reports of racial prejudice in the United States "by indicating that it is possible for Negroes in this country to attain preeminence in the field of the arts."

Tomorrow the birds will sing again and you'll probably forget all about your heating system.
Before this happens to you phone 2103 or 2768 and we'll try to get there before the birds do.
